

Red Anti-Satellite Experiment Believed Failure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia's latest test of a satellite-destroying weapon, conducted despite an appeal from President Carter for a ban on such weapons, ended in apparent failure, U.S. intelligence sources believe.

A Soviet interceptor satellite went past its target satellite at a distance of less than 50 miles in the test last week, Russia's first in about five months, the sources say.

U.S. experts acknowledge it is difficult to tell whether such a test is a success or a failure without knowing Soviet technical objectives at the current stage of development. But U.S. study of the results has produced a consensus that the May 23 intercept test failed.

Based on the pattern of past Soviet tests, American analysts believe Russians are trying to perfect a close approach technique.

So far, it is believed, the Russians have not attempted to destroy a target satellite in five tests over the past year and a half.

Officials said the Soviets have not tried to hit any American satellites, but have confined their tests to all-Russian space vehicles.

But the resumption of Russian anti-satellite flight tests in 1976 after a four-year lapse has aroused concern among U.S. officials. Three of last year's Russian tests were rated probable successes, the fourth one a failure.

Carter, reflecting U.S. concern, said at a news conference on March 9, "I have suggested (to the Russians) that we forego the opportunity to arm satellite bodies and also to forego the opportunity to destroy observation satellites."

Observation satellites are used by both countries to monitor each other's military developments, including testing of strategic weapons, missile base construction and other important indicators.

Such spy satellites are considered essential in assuring compliance with agreements to limit strategic nuclear weapons.

The 1972 U.S.-Soviet SALT agreement bars interference with reconnaissance satellites, but that agreement is due to expire Oct. 3.

Resumption of Soviet anti-satellite tests has spurred increased U.S. space defense spending. The budget for such work has been doubled for next fiscal year to about $1.26 billion.

Much of the U.S. effort is aimed at enabling American satellites to maneuver out of harm's way and at "hardening" them against blinding or neutralization by laser beams or radiations from nuclear weapon explosions.

U.S. scientists also are working on a U.S. system to knock out Soviet satellites, a project still in the research stage. The first flight tests are at least three years away and the first deployment may be possible in five years.

Seek Clues To Blaze

SOUTHGATE, Ky. (AP) — As shock gave way to reality for the friends and families of the 160 people who died in the Beverly Hills Supper Club fire Saturday night, arson investigators switched from searching for bodies to looking for clues to one of the worst fires in U.S. history.

Investigators were optimistic that the tragedy wouldn't get any worse. Southgate Fire Chief Dick Riesenber said he is "absolutely certain" the rubble—once one of the Midwest's slickest nightspots on a 17-acre bluff across the Ohio River from Cincinnati—will yield no more victims.

Late Monday, a giant crane began pulling the facade from the demolished nightspot, finishing what the fire started as it revealed the original brick and wood Colonial face. Officials got their first look inside the Zebra Room, just above where the fire is thought to have started in a basement boiler room area.

They saw rubble but no bodies. Red Cross volunteers standing by sighed in collective relief. It had been their job to put the charred corpses into body bags before they were taken to a makeshift morgue in nearby Fort Thomas, Ky.

"I've seen some gruesome murders, some mighty bad auto wrecks," recalled the leader of a Red Cross unit from Mount Healthy, Ohio. "But nothing was as bad as this."

Kentucky Highway Patrol Commissioner Ken Brandenburg is coordinating the search for clues. Though he said he hasn't ruled out arson, Brandenburg also hasn't said he feels the fire was intentional. Ironically, the cause of a 1970 blaze that gutted the club never was determined.

"You can't expect us to come up with any possible explanations until at least the end of the week," Brandenburg said.

Investigators have tentatively ruled out earlier theories that the fire started in a basement generator or leaking oil tank, but have said nothing about why the fire spread so quickly.

"They told us to leave. We got up. We noticed smoke, and then, wham, fire all around," said a survivor from the Cabaret Room. Some say the flames moved like a flash through the air conditioning ducts and broke out through all the walls simultaneously.

One angle the commissioner and local officials are checking closely is a charge of overcrowding in the Cabaret Room at the club, which could seat 1,400. Sketchy reconstruction of the fire shows that most of the victims died trying to get out of the giant showroom where singer John Davidson was to have appeared only minutes after flames were observed.

Remaining records of the club have been confiscated by authorities. Among them were the water-soaked and tattered guest lists that Southgate Mayor Ken Paul studied, handing them over to the patrol chief one at a time.

Terrorists Seeking Way Out Of Pinch

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — South Moluccan terrorists holding 55 or more hostages aboard a Dutch train have asked the government for "intermediaries" to discuss their demands, a Justice Ministry spokeswoman said today.

She declined to give any details about the request. But another highly placed government source cautioned against optimism, saying he considered it "a small change" in the situation.

He pointed out a second group of Moluccans holding four hostages at a schoolhouse had made no similar request for intermediaries. But unofficial observers thought the request from the terrorists on the train might open the way to decisive negotiations.

Several psychiatrists have been in contact by telephone with the Moluccans, listening to their demands and transmitting to them the government's reaction. But they are representatives of the government.

The terrorists previously refused to accept offers of mediation from moderate leaders of the South Moluccan community in The Netherlands.

Earlier today a Justice Ministry spokesman said the government was trying to get the terrorists to give up their guns as well as their hostages in exchange for a flight out of the country.

Officials said the Moluccans offered Monday to release their prisoners if they were supplied a plane to take them to another country. The Justice Ministry spokesman said the Moluccans were told they would have a better chance of getting a plane crew to take them if they also gave up their weapons.

The terrorists did not reply immediately, the spokesman said.

He said the Moluccans have made no mention for several days of their demand that 21 South Moluccans imprisoned for previous terrorist acts be allowed to leave the country with them. But "as far as we know they still want the release of the others," he added.

There was no indication where the Moluccans might want to go or that any country was willing to give them refuge. One unconfirmed report said they might ask to go to Vietnam, but a government spokesman said that destination had not been mentioned in the negotiations.

Seven to 10 Moluccan extremists are holding between 55 and 57 hostages on a commuter train they took over May 23 outside Assen, in northeast Holland, while four others are holding four teachers in the Bovensmilde elementary school 10 miles to the south. The terrorists in the school released 105 children last Thursday and Friday after many of them became ill with a stomach ailment.

Doctors said seven of the children were still hospitalized but would be sent home today or Wednesday.

There are some 40,000 South Moluccan exiles in The Netherlands. A small militant faction has been carrying on a sporadic campaign of terrorism and sabotage since 1970 to call attention to their demand for the independence from Indonesia of their native islands in the former Dutch East Indies. But Indonesia has made clear it is not going to let the islands go, and the Dutch government has given no support to the independence demand.

Psychiatrists are acting as go-betweens in the negotiations with the terrorists, which are being carried on by telephone. Meanwhile, about 2,000 troops and police have cordoned off the train and school, and an army camp at Assen is supplying hot meals to the Moluccans and their prisoners.

School Hit Hard By Fatal Fire

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — All six schools in the Edgewood school district are closed for two days and Wayne Elementary School will be shut down two weeks early after the fatal consequences of a retirement party Saturday night at the Beverly Hills Supper Club.

The school board of the 12,000-pupil district decided to take the action Monday after six school district employees died in the fire which consumed the supper club located five miles south of Cincinnati.

The employees were among a group of 37 people who were attending the retirement party of Ona Mayfield, who leaves Wayne Elementary after 40 years of teaching.

She survived the blaze, which claimed at least 160 lives. But a surprise guest—her son Clark, head football coach at Jacksonville State College in Alabama—died in the flames.

Wayne Elementary School Principal Kenneth Hackler—who escaped from the fire—spent Sunday identifying the bodies of his school employees.

"When they told everyone to leave, we put our chairs on the table so people could get through more easily," Hackler recalled. "Then when the smoke came, some of the members of our party were pushed to the ground by the force of the crowd."

Wayne Elementary 18-member staff was decimated by the loss of two teachers, a teachers aide and a secretary at the school. Board officials noted that the school librarian was among those still missing.

Lucy King, a guidance counselor at the district high school with over 35 years experience in schools, also died in the fire, officials said.

Rhodes Vetoes Part Of Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Senate Democrat who sponsored his party's big voter registration bill in the legislature has accused GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes of "putting up a smokescreen" in vetoing one section of the measure.

Rhodes announced Sunday that he had used his line item veto power to reject election day registration, making registrations permanent, and allowing registrations by deputy motor vehicle registrars.

Sen. Tony P. Hall, D-6 Dayton, who said it is "safe to say" that Democrats will override the governor on all three vetoes, added he was a little surprised about deputy registrar signups. "I didn't think he would touch that," Hall said. He said he expected the other vetoes.

In disallowing the deputy registrar provision, Rhodes said deputy registrars are not trained to register voters, and that the bill provided no funds for such training.

But he added that the proposal would only add to the long lines encountered by many motorists at deputy registrar offices. It was on this point that Hall charged that the 67-year-old governor "was trying to deceive the people, trying to get them all stirred up over nothing."

The Montgomery County senator noted that the bill provides for deputy registrar signups only when a motorist is renewing his driver's license—not when the registrars are busy selling license plates and validation stickers, as they recently have been.

Ambassador Kidnaped

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (AP) — The release of El Salvador's kidnapped ambassador was awaited today following fulfillment of the "sole condition" set by his leftist kidnapers, the reading of a five-page statement from them to the annual meeting of the Inter-American Development Bank.

The statement denounced the conservative military governments of El Salvador and Guatemala, criticized the bank and other development agencies and accused President Kjall Eugenio Laugerud's Guatemalan government of mishandling relief funds after the 1976 earthquake that killed more than 22,000 Guatemalans.

The statement also charged that the kidnaped man, Eduardo Casanova Sandoval, kidnaped and murdered hundreds of "patriots and revolutionaries" in El Salvador during the 10 years he headed his country's army.

The 1,200 delegates to the Inter-American bank's annual board of governors meeting sat silently at their opening session Monday as the statement was read to them in Spanish and simultaneously translated into English, French and Portuguese.

A bank spokesman said the kidnapers promised to free the ambassador and not to molest the delegates to the meeting if the statement was read. However, the El Salvador embassy said no further word had been received from the kidnapers late Monday night.

Casanova Sandoval, 58, was abducted Sunday as he and his wife drove home from a restaurant. The statement said his kidnapers were members of the Guerrilla Army of the Poor, said by police to be made up mostly of leftist Guatemalan students. In their statement they said they were aligned with the Farabundo Marti Popular Liberation Front in El Salvador, which said it was responsible for the kidnaping and murder of Foreign Minister Mauricio Borghonovo six weeks ago.

Third World Could Lose Sympathy

PARIS (AP) — Sen. Jacob Javits warned the Third World today to react "with reasonableness" to the Carter administration's offers or risk losing the sympathy of the American people.

The New York Republican and Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., both defended the administration against complaints from underdeveloped nations that it is offering them nothing new to solve their basic economic problems.

The senators, who are attending the 27-nation "North-South" Conference on International Economic Cooperation, said the developing nations of Africa, Asia and Latin America need to understand that the new administration cannot act overnight.

"You can't solve all these problems in two days," said Ribicoff.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, in a speech at the opening of the three-day conference Monday, said the United States would support creation of a fund and reserve stocks to stabilize the prices of some raw materials produced by the developing nations.

He also pledged a $375 million contribution to the $1 billion program proposed by Britain to aid the poorest nations. And he called for the 18-month-old negotiations between the industrialized and underdeveloped nations to continue instead of ending Wednesday with the conclusion of the current session as planned.

Storms Hit Wide Area

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Severe thunderstorms, many with damaging winds, continued across southern Missouri and northwest Arkansas and moved into portions of southern Illinois and western Tennessee overnight. Damage in most places was limited to downed trees and power lines.

Nebraska also had some severe weather. Hailstones as big as tennis balls pounded Burwell. Windows were broken, autos were damaged and one person was injured.

Six to eight inches of hail was reported southwest of Stapleton airport in Denver.

Showers and thunderstorms continued in most of the Mississippi Valley and western Great Lakes, and over Oklahoma, northwest Texas, northeast New Mexico and eastern Colorado. Rain fell across the northern Rockies and west to the Pacific.

Elsewhere, clear skies dominated the Southwest and the southern intermountain region. The rest of the nation had partly cloudy skies.

Americans Mark Sad Memorial Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

On a Memorial Day weekend officially set aside to remember those who died in battle, Americans prayed, marched, celebrated and suffered new tragedy.

Death shadowed the weekend for many. At least 160 persons died at a supper club fire in Southgate, Ky., and hundreds more were killed on the nation's highways and in other accidents.

Some lamented that too little thought was given to heroes of past U.S. military involvements, with too much celebration of the unofficial beginning of summer.

In just such a summer ceremony, Frank Coghlan marked the day by swimming from Staten Island to Brooklyn in the shadow of New York's Verrazano Narrows Bridge. After emerging from the chilly waters, he boarded a jet and flew to San Francisco for a similar swim beneath the Golden Gate Bridge.

The traditional wreath was placed at the Tomb of the Unknowns in Washington by Navy Secretary J. Graham Clayton.

In Seattle, Bill Fletcher, a 92-year-old veteran serving as marshal of the Memorial Day parade complained,

"There's no enthusiasm any more."

"My God, when I was a boy, we'd have a parade that would take three to four hours," said Fletcher. "Now they're going to pick me up in a big Cadillac, take me to the reviewing stand, I'll get out for a few minutes, then they'll put me in the Cadillac and we'll go home."

The holiday brought back a 59-year-old memory of escape from death for World War I veteran Richard Cavender, 81, of Bonita, Calif. Cavender received a Purple Heart medal in the mail Saturday, weeks after discovering a long-forgotten document.

He'd been in the trenches near Cantini, France, when the Germans bombarded his unit with mustard gas in June 1918. Overcome by the gas, he lay under a blanket for five days until he could be evacuated.

In the Long Island town of Manhasset, N.Y., a Right-To-Life group placed a wreath on a monument to war dead after being barred from taking part in an American Legion Memorial Day parade.

The Legion had refused an invitation to the North Shore Right-To-Life group on grounds it is a political group.

provisions of the bill making it easier to register, saying they would improve Ohio's election system.

These include door-to-door registration and permitting designated county officials to distribute registration forms for new voters to mail in to election board offices.

He also left undisturbed a part of the bill that requires statewide registration of voters—22 counties have none and four have partial registration—and requiring the secretary of state to compile and maintain a master list of voters.

Meanwhile, the House returned today to vote on a bill inspired by last winter's energy crisis.

Senate and House leaders, however, still have not put together a major energy package based on voluminous hearings conducted in both chambers the past several months, as promised.

Before the House this afternoon was a bill by Rep. Rocco J. Colonna, D-Brook Park, which would require Ohio's utilities to keep state officials more fully informed about what lies ahead in terms of energy supplies and capabilities.

A major part of the problem last winter, at least from the viewpoint of the governor and legislative leaders who worked with Rhodes during those bleak days, was a lack of knowledge as to how much natural gas was available.

The credibility of the natural gas industry, which had dimmed in the eyes of the public and their elected leaders, served to aggravate the problem.

Against that background, Colonna introduced his bill under which gas and electrical utilities would have to file each July 1 a report for the governor, public utilities commission, legislative leaders, and the energy resources and development agency.

It would have to contain projected demand for the following 12 months, fuel supplies on hand of the electrical utilities, and evidence of supply contracts of the gas companies for the following 12 months along with quantities in storage.

If a utility showed a likelihood that it was going to run short in the following year, it would be required to specify what steps it intends to take in order to prevent interruptions or curtailments in service.

Baggage Limitations Are Eased

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just in time for summer vacation, new rules are going into effect permitting travelers on most overseas flights to carry a lot more luggage.

Beginning Wednesday, free baggage allowances on most flights will be based on the number of pieces a passenger is carrying and on their size rather than on weight, the Civil Aeronautics Board says.

Passengers holding first-class tickets will be allowed two bags, each limited in size to no more than 62 inches, plus a 45-inch carry-on bag. The size of a bag is the sum of its length, width and depth.

Economy-class passengers can check two free bags, totaling 106 inches, provided that neither exceeds 62 inches. They also are entitled to a 45-inch carry-on piece of luggage.

Based on standard baggage sizes, the total of 106 inches would permit a passenger to carry free of charge a man's two-suit and a three-suit. The 45-incher would match bags designed to fit snugly under an aircraft seat.

Present free baggage allowances on overseas flights limit first-class passengers to 66 pounds and economy class to 44 pounds. In the latter case, that usually limits a passenger to one checked bag and one small carry-on.

Seek Help On Energy

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — The head of Lorain County's energy stamp program, which sustained many needy persons who couldn't pay their fuel bills last winter, is looking for more money to support the project through next winter.

Charles E. Hopkins, director of the Lorain County Community Action Agency and originator of the energy stamp plan here, said the program has been refueled with a $10,000 federal grant but that more funds are needed.

The plan enables low-income residents to buy $75 worth of energy stamps for $25. The stamps may be used to pay natural gas bills with Columbia Gas of Ohio, the only natural gas company serving the area.

Only this program and one in Connecticut offer energy stamps, officials said.

Program officials said that applicants must prove their income limits and must have received a shut-off notice from the gas company. A resident can buy $75 worth of stamps once a year.

"The stamp program is not a solution to the problem by itself," Hopkins said, adding that the agency has received $2,400 for a project to winterize homes of poor residents.

The energy stamps program began last winter with $7,500 from the federal Community Services Administration, which later granted $2,500 more.

Caller Aids In Arrests

An anonymous telephone caller aided city police in the Sunday apprehension of flower thieves at the Buckeye Mart store in the Lancaster Pike shopping center.

According to the report, the caller told police at 8:40 p.m. that a red pickup truck was parked in front of the Buckeye Mart store and two subjects were loading flowers onto the vehicle.

Pt. William Pontious was dispatched to the scene, and spotted the truck at the intersection of Lancaster Pike and E. Main Sts.

He turned his cruiser and stopped the truck on E. Main St. When he asked the driver where he obtained the flowers, Pontious stated that the man became very nervous and wouldn't answer.

A passenger in the vehicle told Pontious that they bought the flowers at a store, but couldn't remember the location.

Pontious then placed both men under arrest, and because of a prior theft offense, both were charged with grand theft. One man was also wanted by the Worthington Police Department for speeding.

The subjects were identified as John R. Andrews, 53, and Donald E. Parsons, 19, both of Columbus.

Fires Destroy Barn, Orient Mobile Home

Weekend fires destroyed a barn near Ringgold and damaged an Orient mobile home, according to reports at the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

Firefighters from the Harrison, Amanda, Clear Creek, and Circleville Departments battled the 1:02 p.m. Sunday barn blaze on the Bill Plum farm on Hagerty Road, one mile west of the Ringgold Northern Road.

The 96 by 40 foot building valued at $15,000 and contents estimated at $5,000 were lost in the fire.

Contents include a 1961 Ford owned by Harry Carter, Route 1, Ashville, straw, pigs, and a spreader.

Harrisburg, Jackson Twp., and Scioto Firefighters were called to the 6300 Dawnlight Circle S., Orient, mobile home of Bernadette Starr 2:23 a.m. Monday.

Extensive fire and smoke damage was reported to the trailer, which is owned by Hazel Kennedy, Columbus.

The fire was believed to have been started by electrical sparks, which caught the insulation on fire.

Americans Mark Sad Memorial Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
On a Memorial Day weekend officially set aside to remember those who died in battle, Americans prayed, marched, celebrated and suffered new tragedy.

Death shadowed the weekend for many. At least 160 persons died at a supper club fire in Southgate, Ky., and hundreds more were killed on the nation's highways and in other accidents.

Some lamented that too little thought was given to heroes of past U.S. military involvements, with too much celebration of the unofficial beginning of summer.

In just such a summer ceremony, Frank Coghlan marked the day by swimming from Staten Island to Brooklyn in the shadow of New York's Verrazano Narrows Bridge. After emerging from the chilly waters, he boarded a jet and flew to San Francisco for a similar swim beneath the Golden Gate Bridge.

The traditional wreath was placed at the Tomb of the Unknowns in Washington by Navy Secretary J. Graham Clayton.

In Seattle, Bill Fletcher, a 92-year-old veteran serving as marshal of the Memorial Day parade complained,

"There's no enthusiasm any more." "My God, when I was a boy, we'd have a parade that would take three to four hours," said Fletcher. "Now they're going to pick me up in a big Cadillac, take me to the reviewing stand, I'll get out for a few minutes, then they'll put me in the Cadillac and we'll go home."

The holiday brought back a 59-year-old memory of escape from death for World War I veteran Richard Cavender, 81, of Bonita, Calif. Cavender received a Purple Heart medal in the mail Saturday, weeks after discovering a long-forgotten document.

He'd been in the trenches near Cantini, France, when the Germans bombed his unit with mustard gas in June 1918. Overcome by the gas, he lay under a blanket for five days until he could be evacuated.

In the Long Island town of Manhasset, N.Y., a Right-To-Life group placed a wreath on a monument to war dead after being barred from taking part in an American Legion Memorial Day parade.

The Legion had refused an invitation to the North Shore Right-To-Life group on grounds it is a political group.

Rhodes Vetoes . . .

provisions of the bill making it easier to register, saying they would improve Ohio's election system.

These include door-to-door registration and permitting designated county officials to distribute registration forms for new voters to mail in to election board offices.

He also left undisturbed a part of the bill that requires statewide registration of voters—22 counties have none and four have partial registration—and requiring the secretary of state to compile and maintain a master list of voters.

Meanwhile, the House returned today to vote on a bill inspired by last winter's energy crisis.

Senate and House leaders, however, still have not put together a major energy package based on voluminous hearings conducted in both chambers the past several months, as promised.

Before the House this afternoon was a bill by Rep. Rocco J. Colonna, D-Brook Park, which would require Ohio's utilities to keep state officials more fully informed about what lies ahead in terms of energy supplies and capabilities.

A major part of the problem last winter, at least from the viewpoint of the governor and legislative leaders who worked with Rhodes during those bleak days, was a lack of knowledge as to how much natural gas was available.

The credibility of the natural gas industry, which had dimmed in the eyes of the public and their elected leaders, served to aggravate the problem.

Against that background, Colonna introduced his bill under which gas and electrical utilities would have to file each July 1 a report for the governor, public utilities commission, legislative leaders, and the energy resources and development agency.

It would have to contain projected demand for the following 12 months, fuel supplies on hand of the electrical utilities, and evidence of supply contracts of the gas companies for the following 12 months along with quantities in storage.

If a utility showed a likelihood that it was going to run short in the following year, it would be required to specify what steps it intends to take in order to prevent interruptions or curtailments in service.

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, said he expects the House Energy and Environment Committee, under Chairman Thomas J. Carney, D-71 Youngstown, to put together soon an omnibus energy bill incorporating more significant steps aimed at solving at least some of Ohio's energy problems.

Riffe said he envisions a new cabinet level department of energy and environment, empowered to involve itself in supply allocations, conservation, clean coal research, and other aspects of the many faceted problem.

President's Son At British Fete

LONDON (AP) — President Carter's son Chip and his wife, Caron, will be guests of Prime Minister and Mrs. James Callaghan at Britain's version of the bicentennial. The British are celebrating the Silver Jubilee of Queen Elizabeth's reign. The younger Carter and his wife will be in Britain June 6-12, a British spokesman said.

Chip, 26, will attend a number of events, including the Jubilee thanksgiving service at St. Paul's Cathedral on June 7.

The Carters are also scheduled to watch a Jubilee regatta and fireworks display on the River Thames on June 9 and, two days later, they will be the guests of the Callaghans at the Trooping of the Color ceremony.

The 96 by 40 foot building valued at $15,000 and contents estimated at $5,000 were lost in the fire.

Contents include a 1961 Ford owned by Harry Carter, Route 1, Ashville, straw, pigs, and a spreader.

Harrisburg, Jackson Twp., and Scioto Firefighters were called to the 6300 Dawnlight Circle S., Orient, mobile home of Bernadette Starr 2:23 a.m. Monday.

Extensive fire and smoke damage was reported to the trailer, which is owned by Hazel Kennedy, Columbus.

The fire was believed to have been started by electrical sparks, which caught the insulation on fire.

A Page Of Opinion

Endless Research

Most persons have a chance to catch only a glimpse of the research going on continuously in thousands of laboratories throughout the world, and then only when some startling discovery or invention is announced.

Underneath the headlines of scientific achievement rides an undercurrent of investigation and testing which fits new pieces to the puzzle of natural science every day.

There is no need to list man's accomplishments on earth. They are obvious. What is not so apparent is the long road he has yet to travel to catch up to the abilities of more primitive species of life on the planet.

Man prides himself on his communications systems which enable millions of persons to listen to and read the words of a single man. But as any fisherman is aware, a school of fish turns simultaneously on a signal inaudible and imperceptible to humans.

Our military forces are quite proud of advances made in

What Is Fame?

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK — Do you yearn to be famous?

Most Americans do, when they're young. Later in life, when they observe the obligations and harassments that go along with fame, they often thank God they're not. Fame is an ego-building but back-breaking state of being which — like love — is most comfortable in private, and most frightening when its loss is contemplated.

"Young people these days fall into it (fame) before they're prepared," Jonathan Winters told us once, "and sometimes it blows their minds." Sudden fame has a way of exposing neuroses and making them unbearable, as apparently it did in the case of Freddie Prinze, an instant TV star who committed suicide.

"The trouble with fame is you can't take a course in it. Nobody teaches you how to handle yourself," said another television performer, who didn't want to be quoted. "A lot of hangers-on try to tell you the way you should behave, but how would they know? They've never been famous. I wish you could at least buy a book, a how-to thing on what to do with the damn stuff."

The late Maurice Chevalier said fame was fine, as long as you could acknowledge honestly that you didn't just fall into it — you earned it.

"Fame," he said, "is when you have done your best with what you know how to do best, and people everywhere look at you with a friendly smile, and you know they mean it."

"Fame," Sen. Jacob Javits of New York believes, "is a platform from which to serve. It is the gratification and reward that inspires you to do even more, and it is an incentive to others who are still not famous. Above all, fame must be an incentive — not a goal — or it will be fatal to the happiness of anyone who has it."

Anita Loos wrote, "Fame is to find out how far egomania has gotten you."

Ralph Bunche called fame "a very imprecise word. It would seem to have quite different meanings to different people. I find it difficult, for instance, to make a sharp distinction between 'fame' and 'notoriety.' The major factor in either case is the extent of exposure to public view and knowledge, which is to say that the information media play a major role in the process. I consider fame to be a fickle, fleeting and feckless."

Actress Ruth Gordon says she heartily agrees with Sir Laurence Olivier, who said of fame . . . "It's when the phone rings in your flat and you're told, 'Sir, you have a transatlantic call,' and without even thinking, you say, 'And who is it calling?'"

Gower Champion says fame can't be defined exactly. "But I'll tell you this: I have always thought of it as being something that comes legitimately after death. So I'm not in any hurry for it."

And an old friend, director Morton da Costa, thinks fame is a dubious asset, acquired either by design or accident. "It usually attracts to its possessor a host of expendable sycophants, a lack of privacy and the alienation of old friends who refuse to believe that this most desired status has not changed the heart of the 'lucky one' into a piece of stone."

To Joan Crawford, fame was "a jewel which must be worn with care and responsibility and reverence."

"A man speaking of his own fame," the Hon. James A. Farley once observed, "is like a drop of water in the ocean of time. Like a drop of water in a wave, he may be illuminated momentarily by the light of the sun or moon but, at best he is part of a universe beyond his present comprehension. Fame is a far thing — to be judged not by the storms of the surface of the present, but what he adds to the deep current of man's progress on this earth."

"It's all a crock!" John Lennon told me. I think he was referring to fame, but it could have been something altogether different, like tennis.

"Fame is for the birds," said a prominent ornithologist.

And last month, at our son's high school, the students were polled on which American public figure was most deserving of fame. The majority wrote Richard Nixon.

NEW YORK (AP) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and others warn that the country could soon be overrun by lawyers, but nobody seems to warn about a similar threat from the economists.

Once somewhat removed from the decision-making process in many companies, economists today are in a position to greatly influence management decisions. They have made their place in the corporate hierarchy.

At the same time, it might be argued, business seems to have become more timid, reminded by its economic seers how fearsome is the future, how filled with traps for those who charge ahead.

There is the danger of rising interest rates, of resurging inflation, of re-emerging recession. There is the uncertainty about Federal Reserve policy, tax policy, energy policy, regulatory policy.

The future once meant proceed to the next opportunity. Now it's a red light. Economists often control that light.

Generally called upon today to be forecasters, economists are little more qualified than anyone else. First, economists always see the dangers ahead; second, they see the dangers to themselves in being bullish.

Bullishness calls for capital commitments, for expansion and modernization to meet the coming demand. If the demand isn't forthcoming, the economist might as a consequence find himself departing.

Safety, personal and corporate, demands that forecasters be restrained, and they are. But great companies never were built on caution. And equally cautious are economists' first cousins, the stock market analysts.

Except for a relatively few stocks that individual brokers are pushing — brokers are always suggesting certain stocks for purchase, even in poor markets, because that's the way they make a living — analysts of late have been timid.

They have been telling the big institutions to be prudent, which is to say, be cautious. Whereas risk-taking always has been the vitality of strong markets, the analysts now say the conservative, balanced portfolio is to be sought.

If you add to the fears of economists and analysts the belief of some regulators that any innovation can be challenged in the name of justice or equality or environment, you have a grim picture.

You might even wonder how anyone can do anything. You might wonder if the people are fighting themselves in an undeclared and unrecognized civil war.

Whereas economists sometimes make brilliant insights into the affairs of man, they don't always recognize the virtues of man. You may be sure they'll seldom overestimate his capacity; his capacity for innovation, for example.

Working with numbers that disguise the purpose of their work, which is man, they are inclined to merely project what is now or was in the past into the future. No wonder so many forecasters are grim, that they lack faith.

But above all, economists are cautious, often failing to appreciate that life is synonymous with risk, and that risk can be eliminated only with death.

Trail Move Scheduled

WORTHINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Crews of volunteers are going to spend June 11 moving 130 miles of the Buckeye Trail to a new location.

Bob Paton, executive director of the Buckeye Trail Association, which oversees the more than 700-mile long trail through Ohio, said more than 100 volunteers will participate in the move.

Paton said there will be 50 two-person teams working under the direction of crew chiefs in charge of 35 mile sections.

The area to be relocated is between Miamisville near Cincinnati and Pike State Forest in Pike County.

"People in Adams County said 'We have a new route for you'" Paton explained, "and the board (of directors of the trail association) said okay."

The 76-year-old retired forester said the Radio Club of Southern Ohio agreed to set up a communications link with operators in each of four command posts and in vehicles with crew chiefs.

"At the end of the day the whole 130 miles will be transferred," Paton said.

Meat Imports Up Slightly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Imports of meat subject to restriction under a 1964 quota law have picked up slightly but still are running well below a year ago, according to the government.

In March, the Agriculture Department said Thursday, imports totaled 107 million pounds, up from 97.8 million in February. They totaled 147.4 million pounds in March of last year.

The imports are being held in check through "voluntary restraint" agreements negotiated with countries eligible to ship quota-type meat into the U.S. market. This is mostly fresh, frozen or chilled low-grade beef used for hamburger, but includes veal, mutton and goat meat.

Processed meat such as canned cooked corn beef are not restricted by the agreements or covered by the 1964 law. It was designed to prevent excessive dumping of foreign beef on the U.S. market.

The 1977 agreements call for imports of no more than 1.272 billion pounds, equal to around 7 per cent of U.S. production. Some 15 countries eligible to ship the quota-type meat provided 1.232 billion pounds in calendar 1976.

A Page Of Opinion

Endless Research

Most persons have a chance to catch only a glimpse of the research going on continuously in thousands of laboratories throughout the world, and then only when some startling discovery or invention is announced.

Underneath the headlines of scientific achievement rides an undercurrent of investigation and testing which fits new pieces to the puzzle of natural science every day.

There is no need to list man's accomplishments on earth. They are obvious. What is not so apparent is the long road he has yet to travel to catch up to the abilities of more primitive species of life on the planet.

Man prides himself on his communications systems which enable millions of persons to listen to and read the words of a single man. But as any fisherman is aware, a school of fish turns simultaneously on a signal inaudible and imperceptible to humans.

Our military forces are quite proud of advances made in automatic navigational direction finding equipment, yet the salmon travels from one continent to another and back apparently on the scent of a quarry thousands of miles away. Members of the highest civilizations are unable to endure radical temperature changes, yet the most primitive peoples on earth — the aborigines of Australia — sleep naked on the ground in freezing weather.

These mysteries are only a drop in the research bucket of unknowns awaiting discovery.

malnutrition on world health, the training received by most doctors has been inadequate. There are physicians who are highly specialized nutritionists who devote themselves exclusively to the important relationship between adequate nutrition and general health.

One such specialist is Dr. Myron Winick, professor of Nutrition and director of the Institute of Nutrition at Columbia University in New York City. He has, in a recent article, expressed some basic axioms that should alert all of us to an area of medicine to which we tend to pay little or no attention.

He said, "The state of nutrition education in this country as it is related to health is in complete chaos. One cause of that chaos is the medical profession's failure to take responsibility in this area."

Perhaps their lack of interest accounts for the fact that "the science of nutrition has more people hanging on its fringe than any other bio-medical discipline. Many of them have had no formal training; some, no doubt, are well meaning, but others are charlatans. There is no way the average person can separate one from the other."

Perhaps such fringe groups would not exist if all of us in the practice of medicine gave more consideration to the nutrition of all of our patients rather than to those who have diseases with special diet needs.

In defense of your doctor and my patients' doctor, it must be stated that we are becoming more candid about our inadequate training in the field of nutrition. We are listening and learning. Medical educators are now introducing courses in nutrition in medical schools and in residency programs. Undoubtedly, this will reflect in a greater awareness of the relationship between nutrition and the total health of our nation.

Conference On Aging Is Scheduled

The 1977 Governor's Conference on Aging will be held June 7 and 8, in the Lausche Building on the Ohio State Fairgrounds starting at 8:30 a.m. both days. The theme for this year's Conference is "Senior Citizens Leading the Way."

Sessions will be repeated during the morning hours each day covering the topics of Advocacy, Crime, Health Care and Service Roles. The afternoon program starting at 1:25 P.M. on June 7, includes remarks given by Governor Rhodes, a guest speaker, entertainment and questions on Issues of importance to Older Persons. Chuck Selby and his orchestra will play for dancing Tuesday evening from 8 p.m. until midnight.

In addition to the repeat of the previous mornings sessions, both Title III and Title VII Advisory Councils will meet on June 8. That day's afternoon program will include a guest speaker and concluding remarks from Martin A. Janis, Director of the Ohio Commission on Aging.

Representing Pickaway County will be: Vera Saunders, Pauline Jones, Wanda Hamilton, Jenny Eckels, Fred Howell and Pickaway County Commissioner Don Strous.

Cities Fight Population Loss

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio per capita income is $4,561, but a wide disparity in wealth among various communities exists, recent estimates of the U.S. Bureau of Census disclose.

In Ottawa Hills, a suburb of Toledo, per capita income of the 3,980 residents is $17,978, up 47.4 per cent from 1969. Bratenahl, a lakefront Cuyahoga County community, showed a $16,062 figure for its 1,656 residents.

The census bureau found poverty in southeastern Ohio.

The 1,095 residents of Mifflin Township in Pike County had a per capita income of $1,308, while in Adams County 1,100 residents of Brush Creek Township and 991 in Jefferson Township were at $1,400 and $1,500 respectively.

Per capita figures are derived by comparing total population with total income. The estimates are for 1974.

Most of Ohio's large cities showed a decline in population in the revised 1975 population estimates.

Cleveland, still Ohio's largest city, dipped from 750,879 in 1970 to 638,793, a 14.9 per cent drop. In addition 28 Cuyahoga County suburbs lost population between 1970 and 1975, with Cleveland Heights, the state's 19th largest city, the big loser, sliding 15.8 per cent to 51,141.

Euclid, Ohio's 15th largest municipality, fell 11.5 per cent to 63,307.

The per capita income for the city of Cleveland was $3,925.

Columbus remained relatively stable in second place with a population of 535,610. Per capita income jumped 43.3 per cent, however, more than $1,000 to $4,333.

Cincinnati's population was reported at 412,564; Toledo, 367,650 and Akron 251,747 to round out the top five.

The second five were Dayton, 205,986; Youngstown, 132,203; Canton, 101,852; Parma, 98,883, and Lorain, 84,907. Lorain was one of the few to show an increase, up 8.6 per cent over 1970.

While city officials generally worry about population declines, the impact on the health of the modern day metropolis is debatable.

Two specialists in urban studies at the University of Akron argue that loss of population presents an opportunity for an improvement in the quality of life. Akron lost 23,000 residents between 1970 and 1975, according to the census figures.

"But whether that means Akron is not going to have a suitable quality of urban life setting is another issue," said Dr. Edward W. Hanten, director of urban studies at Akron U. "Maybe we might, through reduced densities, create a better environment than we had in the more intense densities we've experienced in the past." Translated, that means city living might be made more enjoyable with fewer people around.

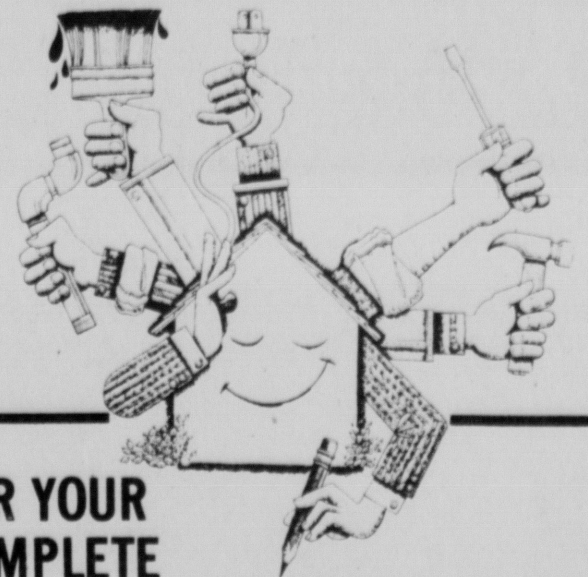

Dr. Frank J. Costa put it this way: "You probably have a better opportunity to deal with issues such as housing, transportation, land use planning, and in general, you have a better opportunity to structure the future of your region when you have a stable population..."

Here are the populations of the 11th through 25th largest cities in the state: Springfield, 77,317; Kettering, 69,949; Hamilton, 66,469; Lakewood, 65,395; Euclid, 63,307; Warren, 60,486;

Mansfield, 56,916; Elyria, 52,474; Lima, 51,372; Cleveland Heights, 51,141; Middletown, 48,004; Cuyahoga Falls, 46,804; Marion, 39,719; Mentor, 39,523, and Newark, 39,123.

Sex Not Worth All The Trouble

DEAR ABBY: I am a 36-year-old liberated woman. I've tried sex and I don't dislike it, but it's not worth all the trouble.

Sex never was a very important part of my life, but most people think there is something wrong with a person who doesn't have a strong sex drive.

I am not frigid; I am very affectionate. I can lie in my lover's arms and enjoy the feeling of closeness, but if it doesn't culminate in the sex act, it's all right with me.

Am I weird? Or do you understand what I'm saying?

BPW Installation Of Officers Was Held

The installation service of officers for the Business and Professional Women's Club was held Thursday night at the Pickaway Arms following dinner.

Miss Hulda Murphy, past president of the Chillicothe club was installing officer. She conducted a candlelight service with carnations for the various officers who were as follows: Sally Dupler, president; Rosemary Watters, first vice president; Mary Alice Greenwood, second vice president; Frieda Collins, recording secretary; Eleanor Taylor, corresponding secretary; and Kathy Henn, treasurer.

Prior to the installation President Louise Hill conducted the business session.

The floral centerpiece was presented to Mary Howard, a charter member attending after a recent illness.

The new president presented a gift to Mrs. Hill in appreciation of her service as presiding officer for the last two years.

The next meeting will be held in August.

honest woman who values love above sex. No need to apologize for it.

DEAR ABBY: I clipped and saved the above from your column because I felt exactly the way CONTENT felt, and I applaud your answer.

I am a woman in my 50s, married 25 years, and I have a happy home and family life with my husband and three college-aged children.

Knowing that a 36-year-old woman also felt that sex isn't worth the trouble gave me a great deal of comfort. So much emphasis is placed on sex these days that one gets the feeling that it is the ultimate in a relationship, and that love, understanding and affection are not enough.

How about running a survey, Abby? It would be interesting to find out how many women (and men) feel that sex is not really worth the trouble. Let's hear it from

THE AFFECTIONATE SILENT MAJORITY

DEAR SILENT: Were I to ask my readers for responses to the question of how men and women feel about the importance of sex, the result would not be conclusive because: (a) those who readily volunteer information about their sex lives tend to be exhibitionists and therefore not typical; (b) I suspect that people lie about their sex lives more than any other subject.

DEAR ABBY: I live in a six-unit apartment house that is small, so we have gotten to know our neighbors.

My next-door neighbor is my problem. It seems that his biggest enjoyment in life is going through the trash barrels that sit on the side of our apartment building. These barrels contain the trash of everyone residing in this building, including my own.

How do I deal with this annoying situation?

N. HOLLYWOOD

DEAR NORTH: I fail to see how your neighbor's fascination with his neighbor's trash could present a "problem" to you. If it's his "biggest enjoyment in life," why not regard it as a weird and somewhat childish pleasure, and let it go at that.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "PHILOSOPHY MAJOR": Schopenhauer, the great philosopher, said: "It is easy to let the adulation of the Diet make amends for the lack of proper behavior toward men. And so we see that in all times and in all countries, the great majority of mankind find it easier to beg their way into heaven by prayer than to deserve to go there by their actions."

Environment Studied By Sixth Grade

The 63 sixth graders of Laurelville School completed a three day overnight Environmental Education program at Camp Akita on May 16-18. The students have been working on environmental studies for the past two years. A State Of Ohio Grant for $2,000 awarded to Alan Cohen, sixth grade teacher, provided the necessary funds required to rent the camp.

Preparation for the trip included testing in the areas of trees, wildflowers, mammals, birds, bird calls, tracks, insects, astronomy geology, and non-flowering plants. An average of 90 per cent on the tests resulted in a reward of a Laurelville Naturalist Patch. Fifty-two students received this award. The students also made camp notebooks out of wood that they designed and decorated by wood-burning.

Once at camp they took 10 mini-courses. These were canoeing, fishing, woods study, soil study, pond and stream study, firebuilding, map and compass skills, conservation, cooking, tracking, and leather-work. The subjects were taught by the school staff and visiting experts. Optional activities included birdwatching, study of Indian artifacts, astronomy and squaredancing.

The project was strongly supported by John Henn, superintendent, and the Logan Elm Board of Education.

Much credit for the great success of the program goes to the staff. Those meriting thanks are: Alan Cohen - director of the program; Charles Dean - Laurelville Elementary Principal; Jackie Schrader, Clara Richter, Harriett Search, Kathy Morris, Susan Smith, teachers; Esther Brown, Tutor; Rick Norviel, Administrative trainee; Clayton Stahr, guidance counselor.

Ron Mills, State Naturalist; Tom Wood, Wahkeena Naturalist; Granville Smith, bird expert; Harley Baker, astronomy expert; Dick Mowery of the Hocking County Soil and Water Conservation Service; Marge Evans, Elementary Supervisor of Pickaway County Schools; Lewis Barbini, Hocking Valley Canoe Livery; Donna Szuhay, Ohio Department of Natural Resources; and Joel Hawley, Camp Akita Director.

A-C Class Of '67 To Hold Reunion

Amanda-Clearcreek High School Class of 1967 will hold their ten year Class Reunion, Sunday, at Rising Park, Lancaster, at the Stone Shelter House on the hill — in the basement starting at 1 p.m. with a pot-luck dinner.

Each family is asked to bring a well filled basket and drink and your own table service. Teachers of the Class of 1967 are invited and will be their special guests.

Anyone having any questions should contact the committee who is Joyce (Kerns) Blosser at 654-6393; Teresa (Drumm) Gebhart at 983-4845; Shirley Hedrick at 969-2201; Patsy Williamson at 969-2074 or Joe Wolf at 654-0745.

MRS. GEORGIA SWEET, 896-2462

The Rev. Larry Zellers and the congregation of the Derby United Methodist Church invite to attend worship service each Sunday morning at 9:15 a.m.

The Stanley party at the Derby Church was a big success and also the Fish Net group wish to thank all who helped make their car wash and yard sale so profitable, both those who donated and those who attended.

Maxwell Graham stopped by to say he thanks each and everyone of his friends who helped in any way to make May 22 such a memorable day for him and his family. Somehow it was omitted from last week's column that among the gifts he received was a beautiful gold watch from the Derby children.

Miss Morgan's kindergarten class enjoyed an outing to the Columbus Zoo on Friday May 20. School is out for the summer on Thursday June 2.

WHS Senior Agricultural Award Winner

PAUL RUSSELL

Paul Russell, son of Mrs. Virginia Russell, Route 2, was recently named winner of the 1977 DEKALB Agricultural Accomplishment Award.

The award, sponsored by DEKALB Ag Research, Inc., is presented to the outstanding senior in vocational agriculture departments around the country. He was chosen on the basis of his scholarship, leadership and supervised farming program.

Russell attends Westfall High School, where he has been active in the High School Marching and Concert Band, FFA and National Honor Society. His agricultural program consists of Columbia Bred ewes, Hereford cows, corn and soybeans.

Following graduation, Russell plans to attend the Ohio State University and major in agricultural mechanizations and systems.

As this year's DEKALB Accomplishment Award winner, his name will be inscribed along with previous winners on a special honors plaque provided by DEKALB, which is a leading supplier of hybrid seeds, poultry and swine breeding stock and livestock marketing services.

KIWANIS SPEAKER — Bob Milburn, left, President of the Moundbuilder's Kiwanis Club, is pictured presenting a check for $225 to Harold Hewitt, Executive Director of the Pickaway County Family YMCA. The check is part of the funds received from the recent Peanut Day Sale. Hewitt spoke to the club on the various summer programs that the YMCA sponsors for area youth. Day Camp is held for children ages 6-9 years old who might not otherwise have the opportunity to experience camping. Resident camping at Camp Wilson outside Columbus is also sponsored by the local Y. This is for older youth, and during the past year 35-40 Pickaway County youth camped at Camp Wilson. Summer playground is another Y sponsored program for children not otherwise involved in supervised summer activities. Special swimming classes, along with field trips, round out the summer activities program at the YMCA. Some 150-200 children from Circleville and Pickaway County benefit from the Summer Activities program every year.

Campus Notes

Among the 179 members of this year's graduating class who received diplomas May 22 at the 132nd commencement exercises of Muskingum College at New Concord, Ohio, was Deborah Ann Radabaugh, 499 E. Franklin St. She will receive a bachelors of arts degree.

Fredrick J. Stare, a professor of nutrition in the Department of Nutrition at the Harvard School of Public Health, was the commencement speaker.

The Miami University chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta, national honor society for freshman scholarship, has announced induction of 202 new undergraduate members and two faculty honorary members.

Election to the society requires at least a 3.5 (half-A, half-B) grade average for the first term of the freshman year. Formerly a society for women, Alpha Lambda Delta now also accepts men, just as women now are eligible for Phi Eta Sigma, formerly a men's honor society. Some students now are initiated into both.

Once ineligible for membership because they weren't women, the male faculty members given honorary membership on this occasion are Dr. George H. Fathauer, professor of sociology and anthropology, and Dr. Claire J. Raeth, associate professor of English.

The list of new undergraduate members of Alpha Lambda Delta at Miami includes Cynthia Su Dancy, 607 Plaza Drive, Suzanne Joan Herel, 539 Garden Parkway and Judith Ann List 6476 Tarlton Road.

Ned Irvin Riegel, Little Walnut Road, received the Degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery from Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland.

The School of Dentistry held the Convocation for conferring degrees in Severance Hall on May 20, with Dean Thomas Joseph De Marco, D.M.D., Ph.D. presiding.

Dr. Riegel was elected to the Omicron Kappa Upsilon National Honor Society for scholastic attainment and professional potential. He was also honored by the Academy of General Dentistry of Ohio and presented a plaque. This is an annual award given to the senior student displaying the highest potential and aptitude for the general practice of Dentistry.

Riegel received his B.S. degree from Rio Grande College, Rio Grande, Ohio in 1973, before entering Case Western Reserve University.

He has been accepted at Case Western Reserve University Orthodontist School which begins in June, for specializing.

Cathy J. Thompson, 335 E. Main St., graduated with a bachelor of science degree from Marietta College May 15. She received the honor of cum laude.

Brent Smith, 136 Griner Ave., was awarded the Outstanding Freshman Chemistry Award, May 23 for his work in Chemistry 141, 142, and 143. The award is a copy of the 58th edition of the CRC Handbook of Chemistry and Physics. The award is sponsored by the CRC Press, Inc. and is presented annually by Dr. Larry E. Wilson of the Chemistry Department at Ohio-University Lancaster Campus.

On May 19, Amy Curtiss, a senior at Ohio State University, 505 Lawnwood Court, was initiated into Bortar Board on the Oval at Mirror Lake. It is the senior honor society for men and women, was founded at OSU in 1914 and became a national honor society in 1918.

New members have achieved at least a 3.0 cumulative point average and reflect the society's three ideals, scholarship, leadership and service.

During the Undergraduate Leadership Awards Ceremony at the Ohio Union, Miss Curtiss was recognized with a Student Leadership Award from the college of arts and sciences. They were given to students who have excelled in leadership rolls and have given of their time and talent to be of service to the student organizations of OSU.

Kathleen Uland, a junior at Ohio State University, has been honored by receiving the Frederick Stecker Award and being inducted into the Greek honorary, Archons.

The Frederick Stecker Award is presented to the member of the Ohio Drake Union Activities Board who has personified the philosophy of outstanding citizenship and leadership in the Ohio Union. Miss Uland was treasurer for the year 1976-77.

The Archons Greek Honorary membership is awarded for outstanding service to the Interfraternity

Driver Has Fatal Heart Attack

The Circleville Police Department investigated a Sunday afternoon accident in which the driver suffered a fatal heart attack.

According to the report, Earl C. Spence, 77, Route 5, was northbound on Nicholas Drive and had made a left turn onto Holiday Lane, when he suffered the heart attack.

His car went out of control and turned north again onto a side yard at 436 Holiday Lane. It traveled through the yard and back onto Nicholas Drive where it came to rest in the southbound lane of the street.

Ptl. Alan Hawks investigated the incident.

Legislative Report

By MYRL SHOEMAKER,
State Representative
88th House District

Recent action in the Ohio House of Representatives included legislation designed to boost economic activity in the state. One of the measures, House Bill 489, would activate a state loan program for businesses. The other measure, House Joint Resolution 18, is a proposed state constitutional amendment to permit the state to finance housing programs. Both proposals were approved by the House on Tuesday and await Senate action.

House Bill 489 would implement a direct loan program to medium sized firms. The Ohio Development Financing Commission would be authorized to make loans to these firms for the purchase of buildings at low interest rates. The loans could not exceed 50 per cent of total amount expended.

The state budget for the next two fiscal years contains a $5 million appropriation for the direct loan program.

The rationale behind the program is to establish an alternative source for capital for business and communities who will use the loans for business expansion and development. Such projects will result in employment opportunities and further capital investment. This program will result in the creation of 4100 new jobs in Ohio and it is an effective and efficient means of helping to rebuild Ohio's economy.

The proposed state constitutional amendment concerning housing is sponsored by Cleveland Representative Edward Feighan, and would allow the state to lend its credit to individuals or associations who build or rehabilitate housing. Ohio voters would vote on the proposal as a statewide issue during the November, 1977, election if HJR no. 18 is approved by the General Assembly.

Adoption of the amendment would mean that the State Housing Finance Agency would be empowered to issue bonds to finance housing loans. The bonds would be retired from loan repayments and income from the sale or rental of property the state had helped develop. The amendment is specifically intended to assist in the development or rehabilitation of housing for low and moderate income families.

In other legislative action, the Ohio Senate, on Wednesday, passed a bill designed to crack down on "kiddie pornography." The bill, Senate Bill no. 243, sponsored by Cleveland Senator Anthony Calabrese, would make pandering obscenity involving a minor a specific crime with more severe penalties than are now in effect under existing obscenity pandering statutes. The new crime would be a fourth degree felony, punishable by up to five years imprisonment and a $25,000 fine. The House will likely approve the legislation in the very near future.

Three People Injured In Accidents

Three people were injured in weekend Memorial Day holiday accidents investigated by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

Bradford E. Call, 18, 335 Brown St., was injured when he was thrown from a motorcycle 1:10 a.m. Sunday on Island Road, just north of W. High St.

Call was treated at Berger Hospital for cuts and abrasions to his left arm, side, and leg.

The motorcycle was operated by James R. Dowden, 19, 210 1/2 S. Court St., according to Deputy Bill Carmean. Dowden, who was arrested for not having an operator's license, was driving west on Island Road when he lost control in a curve.

Both men were thrown from the motorcycle.

David L. Ogan, 24, 1930 Sioux Drive, was treated at Berger Hospital for injuries he suffered in a motorcycle accident 1:24 p.m. Saturday in Logan Elm Village.

Ogan apparently drove his motorcycle into a parked car owned by Nickels A. Bray, Amanda, according to Deputy Don Hamilton.

A Louisville, Kentucky, man claimed he was injured when he was struck by a car 11:35 p.m. Monday while walking along Route 23.

However, personnel at Berger Hospital could find no signs of injury.

James B. Morgan, 63, Louisville, Ky., said a car swerved to avoid him and knocked him into a guardrail. He told deputies that he laid over the guardrail for 30 minutes before a passerby stopped to lend assistance.

Since the sun started to shine, it has lost 113 times the mass of the earth, says the American Museum-Hayden Planetarium.

Driver Has Fatal Heart Attack

The Circleville Police Department investigated a Sunday afternoon accident in which the driver suffered a fatal heart attack.

According to the report, Earl C. Spence, 77, Route 5, was northbound on Nicholas Drive and had made a left turn onto Holiday Lane, when he suffered the heart attack.

His car went out of control and turned north again onto a side yard at 436 Holiday Lane. It traveled through the yard and back onto Nicholas Drive where it came to rest in the southbound lane of the street.

Ptl. Alan Hawks investigated the incident.

The Best In Dining Is Found At R And N Steele's

If you like excellent food, a friendly, relaxed atmosphere, quick, efficient service, and that little something extra every time you stop in, then you owe yourself and your family a stop at R and N Steele's Restaurant. The top-notch establishment is located north of Circleville on old U.S. 23.

"Excellent food" just starts to describe the items on the menu at R and N Steele's. There is seafood that tastes as if it were taken from the boat just that morning. Chicken is prepared at R and N Steele's that rivals the best Southern recipes. Soups and desserts at R and N Steele's receive the same deliberate attention that you would put into your own. The real show stopper at Steele's though, is the top grade, finely prepared beef. Steaks, roast beef, and prime rib will have you coming back again to see if it really is that good. And you'll find that it is, time and time again.

You'll enjoy your food at R and N Steele's in a friendly, relaxed atmosphere also. Whether you are at one of the big roomy tables, or seated in a comfortable leather bench booth, you will find that the low key, dimly lit dining room has the tendency to help you unwind and relax, so that the tensions of the day seem to float away.

The service at R and N Steele's is quick and efficient, but never do you feel under pressure to hurry through your meal. The hostesses and waitresses at R and N Steele's are experienced professionals who have been in the business for a while, and they know the ins and outs of fine food service.

R and N Steele's Restaurant can always be counted on to offer that little "something extra," that is so hard to define, but you always are aware of it. Don't be surprised if you are at Steele's some evening, and the proprietors, Bob and Nancy Steele themselves, approach your table and make sure that you are enjoying yourself. They are the type of business people that are fully aware of the fact that the best insurance for a healthy business is happy customers. So it is a very common sight to see them in the restaurant nearly every night helping with the operation. They extend a personal invitation to you to stop in soon at their establishment and enjoy a pleasant evening.

R and N Steele's has taken another step forward in providing complete service to the people of the Circleville and Pickaway County area. If you need a catering service at your next party, wedding reception, graduation reception, or whatever the occasion, give Nancy Steele a call and you can count on top quality service that covers all the arrangements for your guests' dining. Any number of people from 10 to 250 can be taken care of.

R and N Steele's is open daily except Sundays and holidays from 11 a.m. to midnight and on Saturdays from 4 p.m. to midnight. The kitchen closes at 10:30 p.m. on weekdays and at midnight on Friday and Saturday.

Another outstanding feature of Steele's Restaurant are the lunches that are offered. Mouth-watering soups and sandwiches are offered at lunch-time that will make your lunch something more than just an hour-long coffee break.

Steele's also offers all legal beverages. They are freshly mixed at the attractive bar in the main dining room. Or if your taste leans toward beer, a wide selection is offered in cold bottles or cans.

Steele's also has private accommodations for up to 70 people. Impress your friends and set your next party up at Steele's Restaurant, where everything from appetizers to dessert is taken care of.

Remember, the next time you want an unforgettable dining experience, you don't have to travel a great distance to do so. Just stop in at R and N Steele's Restaurant, north of Circleville on old U.S. Route 23.

THIS IS the trademark to look for if you care about fine dining. It is the logo for R and N Steele's Restaurant. When you see this sign on old U.S. Route 23 north of Circleville, you can be sure that you are at one of the leading restaurants in the area.

THE OWNERS of R and N Steele's are Bob and Nancy Steele. They extend an invitation to you to come to their establishment and see for yourself that they offer the finest dining in the area. Don't be surprised if Bob or

Nancy comes to your table to make sure that everything concerning your meal is just right. They pride themselves on being able to offer that little "something extra."

CATERING SERVICES are available from Nancy Steel at R and N Steele's Restaurant. It is just another example of the high quality full service that Steele's offers. Call Nancy Steele for complete details. They can take the worry away from you when you give your next party for 10 to 250 people.

Queen Winds Up Jubilee Festivities

LONDON (AP) — Ballet and opera stars from many countries gathered to pay tribute to Britain's Queen Elizabeth II as she began the final two weeks of the Jubilee observance of her 25th year on the throne.

The British Broadcasting Corporation televised her attendance at a Monday night Royal Opera House performance, which it was broadcasting live throughout the United Kingdom and Europe and via satellite to the United States for later broadcast.

Prince Philip, Queen Mother Elizabeth and other members of the royal family sat with the monarch in a horseshoe-shaped balcony draped with garlands of flowers and ferns. Hundreds of tiny jewels sewn onto the queen's evening gown sparkled under the bright television lights.

Rudolf Nureyev and Dame Margot Fonteyn danced the world premiere of a one-act ballet, "Hamlet," created for the jubilee by Sir Frederick Ashton, former director of the Royal Ballet.

Opera stars Placido Domingo of Spain, Boris Christoff of Bulgaria, Sir Geraint Evans of Wales and Richard Cassilly of the United States sang, and dozens of singers and dancers performed elaborate production numbers staged for the single night.

The sun always shines on the Logan Elm diamond at tournament time and lately it has been shining on the ball team as well. The Braves proved once again that they are the top team in the county as they won the Pickaway County tournament Saturday afternoon at Logan Elm's ball park.

Coach Vic Pontius's team did it in almost every conceivable way using speed, power, pitching and defense.

They beat Westfall in the opener, 25-2, and came back in the nightcap on Tony Crist's two-hitter, blanking the Vikings 4-0 as Mike Davis made two outstanding last-inning catches in centerfield to preserve Crist's shutout.

In the second game, Eric Graves pitched a four-hitter to help Teays Valley nip Circleville 6-5.

The Braves Tim Justice was a human smoke machine in the first game as he held the Mustangs to two hits and no runs in five innings.

The senior pitcher struck out 12 including three each in the second, third and fifth innings, and walked only three. He fanned five in a row in the second and third innings.

The Mustangs' Howard Rowland managed a hit in the fourth, but was out at home on Mark Skinner's perfect peg to Jerry Scanlan on a basehit to left by Carey Puckett.

Westfall's only two runs came in the sixth off Lynn Strehle when Kevin Thompson signaled, Puckett walked, Thompson stole third, and Larry List drove both in on a hit. Strehle fanned four and walked one in two innings of relief.

Meanwhile, Logan Elm practically tore the hide off the ball as the Braves stepped up to the plate 39 times in six innings, pounding out 17 hits.

The Braves batted around in the first, fourth and sixth innings.

Jerry Scanlan scored the first four times up, stole three bases and drove in two runs with a hit and sacrifice fly.

Lynn Strehle, another senior, cracked three hits including a double and scored three times while collecting two RBIs.

Tony Crist cracked a double, scored three runs and drove in five.

Shortstop Jeff Collins added four hits, four runs and three RBIs while centerfielder Mike Davis collected two doubles and a single, scoring three times and driving home two others.

Chuck Cave drove three runners home, helping out with sacrifice flies; Tim Fouch added two runs, two hits and two RBIs. Tom Congrove and Jeff McKay each smacked a single and sacrifice good for two RBIs; and Mark Skinner added a hit.

The second contest was an even matchup. Circleville scored twice in the first, but the Vikings came back with one in their half-inning, the Tigers added another run in the third but the Vikes went ahead with a three run outburst.

Both teams added two in the fourth frame.

The most exciting play came in the middle innings. John Sanders, the Viking shortstop led off the third with a ground rule double and Terry Trego singled. Duane Keller reached on an error that allowed Sanders to score and one out later, Gary Van Pelt's fielder's choice sent another runner home. Craig Meyers single drove in the final run.

Circleville came back with two in the top of the fourth as Joe Mogan hit a single to center and Gary Combs found his pitch and sent it sailing over the outfield wall for a two-run homer.

Teays Valley forged ahead for good in the bottom of the frame when, after a walk to Charlie Lee, Sanders hit a second ground-rule double over the fence in left-center field to score Lee. Sanders then came home on Duane Keller's sacrifice fly.

The Viking's Eric Graves pitched a four-hitter, walking five and fanning two.

Brian Fath and Brett Allen shared mound duties for Circleville.

Fath allowed six runs on eight hits while walking five and fanning three. Allen pitched perfect relief, whiffing two batters. Sanders had three hits, Roese hit two, Trego, Keller, Craig Meyers and Ernie Fielder each looped a single, Brett Allen and Brad Allison hit singles for Circleville.

In the final contest Logan Elm's Tony Crist started things in Brave style by striking out the side.

Jerry Scanlan led off for the Braves in the first and drew a walk and came home on Lynn Strehle's one-out double to center.

Crist went on to pitch a two-hitter, facing only four batters over the minimum. He gave up a single to Gary Van Pelt in the fifth and a hit to Lance Roese in the seventh. The other two reached on errors.

The senior hurler struck out six and did not walk a batter.

The Braves scored their other three runs in the second. Jeff Collins singled with one out, Mike Davis followed with another base hit and Jerry Scanlan drove both in with triple to the right field foul pole.

Scanlan scored after Randy Pontius walked when together they pulled off a double steal.

The Braves added runners in every other inning but the Vikings Anderson and Herron pitched the Blue and Gold out of further trouble.

The Vikings almost came back in the final inning when Roese singled with one out. Van Pelt then cracked a long fly ball to center that sent Mike Davis back towards the fence. He reached up at the last instant and hauled in the ball. Seconds later, Graves, hit what looked like another sure hit as he shot the ball out over second base. But Davis charged in and snared the ball just over the grass to record the final out.

Scanlan smashed a two-run triple, and scored twice. Lynn Strehle cracked an RBI double, Tony Crist, Tim Fouch, Jeff Collins and Mike Davis each lined a single and Mark Skinner cracked two singles.

Anderson struck out two, and walked two, gave up six hits and four runs. Herron gave up two hits in two innings work.

HERE'S THE PITCH — Logan Elm's Tony Crist fires to a Teays Valley hitter in the championship game of the Pickaway County Tournament Saturday at Logan Elm. The Braves won the championship, 4-0, as Crist hurled a two-hitter. Jerry Scanlan is the catcher and Speeder Davis is the umpire.

Padres Sweep Pair From Giants

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

"We've got a lot of young players, a lot of good ones. I've got to find out who can do what," Alvin Dark said.

The new manager of the San Diego Padres took a look at just about everyone and found out that Mike Ivie can hit the ball.

The Padres set a National League record by using 41 players in their doubleheader sweep of the San Francisco Giants 12-8 and 9-8 Monday and the teams set a major league record by using 74 players in the twinbill.

"Well, I got a look at all of them," said Dark, who took over his new job a few hours before the Memorial Day doubleheader and made one key change — moving Ivie from the No. 5 spot to third in the batting order.

Ivie responded with seven hits for the day, including a record-tying five doubles.

"It's the kind of day you dream about," Ivie said.

In other NL games Monday, Montreal swept a doubleheader from the

Chet Dewbre Unafraid Of Injuries

LONDON, Ohio (AP) — A string of injuries does not scare Chet Dewbre from his harness sulky and back into construction work.

"You can't drive scared. When you recover, you have to go right back at it," said the 52-year-old Oklahoman, who lives near London.

Dewbre should be an expert at comebacks.

The harness driver-trainer has endured a crushed knee, broken collar bone and two broken arms.

"I've been broken up maybe six times," said Dewbre, 6 foot and 155 pounds.

One horse flipped him forward over his sulky. Another fell on him. A third ran over him.

Despite his misadventures, Dewbre insists the life of a construction worker is over for him. Of harness racing, he said, "It's challenging. There's a lot more fun to it."

Dewbre, the driving champion during the second part of the 1976 Scioto Downs meeting, travels the Midwest circuit. He stops at Detroit and Chicago besides Columbus.

Dewbre has been in harness racing full-time for five years. In 1976, he won 96 of his starts to finish with a .365 percentage. He averages more than 500 races a year.

"I don't rest," he said. "I race year around."

New York Mets 5-1 and 3-2, St. Louis crushed the Chicago Cubs 14-0, Philadelphia defeated Pittsburgh 6-4, Cincinnati downed Atlanta 7-3 and Houston stopped Los Angeles 5-3.

"I always thought he (Ivie) would be a good No. 3 hitter because he makes good contact," Dark said. "He's not too fast, but when he hits the ball like that, he doesn't have to be."

Ivie tied a major league mark when he doubled twice in a seven-run seventh-inning burst that carried the Padres to victory in the opener. His five doubles in the twinbill tied a NL record shared by three other players.

George Hendrick homered in each game for San Diego, which extended its winning streak to four games.

Cardinals 14, Cubs 0

Lou Brock had four hits, driving in four runs, Jerry Mumphy chased home three runs and Ken Reitz smacked a two-run homer, powering St. Louis past Chicago.

The Cards battered Chicago pitching for 21 hits as left-hander Pete Falcone, 2-5, pitched a six-hitter. St. Louis scored three runs in the fourth, chasing loser Mike Krukow, 4-3, then erupted for nine runs in the sixth, snapping the Cubs' winning streak at five games.

Astros 5, Dodgers 3

Joaquin Andujar, with last-inning help from Ken Forsch, pitched a five-hitter and Houston erupted for four runs in the second inning in handing Los Angeles its third straight defeat — the longest Dodgers losing string of the season.

Houston scored four runs in the second inning on singles by Enos Cabell, Art Howe and Cesar Cedeno and Dodgers shortstop Ted Martinez' error.

Phillies 6, Pirates 4

Tim McCarver slammed a three-run double in the first inning and Ted Sizemore cracked a fifth-inning homer as Philadelphia handed Pittsburgh its fourth straight defeat. Steve Carlton, 7-2, went the route as the Phillies gained their fourth straight triumph.

Reds 7, Braves 3

A two-run triple by Ken Griffey sparked a four-run eighth-inning rally, giving Cincinnati its victory over Atlanta. Pete Rose singled home Cesar Geronimo, snapping a 3-3 tie, Griffey scored pinch-runner Ed Armsbrister and Rose with his triple and Joe Morgan singled home Griffey.

Expos 5-3, Mets 1-2

Tony Perez slammed a two-run homer in the first game and Andre Dawson connected with one on in the nightcap as Montreal swept a doubleheader from New York.

Steve Rogers fired a four-hitter in the first game and Perez socked his sixth home run of the year. In the nightcap, Dawson's second home run of the season gave Stan Bahnsen, making his first appearance for the Expos since being acquired from Oakland, the victory.

PCC Pro Stembles Names Winners Of ABCD Tourney

Jim Stemble, pro at Pickaway Country Club, announced the winners of the ABCD Scramble held Sunday. Tied for first place with 59s were the teams of Steve Helwage, Bob Hedges, Ken Sherman, Dick England and teams of Bill Weldon, Clark Cello, Bill Camp, Ron Lundberg.

There was a four-way tie for third place with the following teams shooting 61s: 1. Dick Patrick, W. K. Smith, Carl Monahan, Walter Hall; 2. Bruce Helwage, Dean Bushee, Bill Thornton, Lyle Bookman; 3. Tom Snyder, Robert Currie, Phil Leahy, Dallas Elliott; 4. Bob Moon, Lee Cook, Paul Porter and Tony Kamler.

Mark McFadden tied the course record with a 64 last week.

Braves Capture County Tournament

By TOM SPRING
Herald Sports Writer

The sun always shines on the Logan Elm diamond at tournament time and lately it has been shining on the ball team as well. The Braves proved once again that they are the top team in the county as they won the Pickaway County tournament Saturday afternoon at Logan Elm's ball park.

Coach Vic Pontius's team did it in almost every conceivable way using speed, power, pitching and defense.

They beat Westfall in the opener, 25-2, and came back in the nightcap on Tony Crist's two-hitter, blanking the Vikings 4-0 as Mike Davis made two outstanding last-inning catches in centerfield to preserve Crist's shutout.

In the second game, Eric Graves pitched a four-hitter to help Teays Valley nip Circleville 6-5.

Westfall's only two runs came in the sixth off Lynn Strehle when Kevin Thompson signaled, Puckett walked, Thompson stole third, and Larry List drove both in on a hit. Strehle fanned four and walked one in two innings of relief.

Meanwhile, Logan Elm practically tore the hide off the ball as the Braves stepped up to the plate 39 times in six innings, pounding out 17 hits.

The Braves batted around in the first, fourth and sixth innings.

Jerry Scanlan scored the first four times up, stole three bases and drove in two runs with a hit and sacrifice fly.

Lynn Strehle, another senior, cracked three hits including a double and scored three times while collecting two RBIs.

Tony Crist cracked a double, scored three runs and drove in five.

Shortstop Jeff Collins added four hits, four runs and three RBIs while centerfielder Mike Davis collected two doubles and a single, scoring three times and driving home two others.

Chuck Cave drove three runners home, helping out with sacrifice flies; Tim Fouch added two runs, two hits and two RBIs. Tom Congrove and Jeff McKay each smacked a single and sacrifice good for two RBIs; and Mark Skinner added a hit.

Teays Valley forged ahead for good in the bottom of the frame when, after a walk to Charlie Lee, Sanders hit a second ground-rule double over the fence in left-center field to score Lee. Sanders then came home on Duane Keller's sacrifice fly.

The Viking's Eric Graves pitched a four-hitter, walking five and fanning two.

Brian Fath and Brett Allen shared mound duties for Circleville.

Fath allowed six runs on eight hits while walking five and fanning three. Allen pitched perfect relief, whiffing two batters. Sanders had three hits, Roese hit two, Trego, Keller, Craig Meyers and Ernie Fielder each looped a single, Brett Allen and Brad Allison hit singles for Circleville.

Anderson struck out two, and walked two, gave up six hits and four runs. Herron gave up two hits in two innings work.

HERE'S THE PITCH — Logan Elm's Tony Crist fires to a Teays Valley hitter in the championship game of the Pickaway County Tournament Saturday at Logan Elm. The Braves won the championship, 4-0, as Crist hurled a two-hitter. Jerry Scanlan is the catcher and Speeder Davis is the umpire.

A two-run triple by Ken Griffey sparked a four-run eighth-inning rally, giving Cincinnati its victory over Atlanta. Pete Roese singled home Cesar Geronimo, snapping a 3-3 tie, Griffey scored pinch-runner Ed Armsbrister and Rose with his triple and Joe Morgan singled home Griffey.

Expos 5-3, Mets 1-2

Tony Perez slammed a two-run homer in the first game and Andre Dawson connected with one on in the nightcap as Montreal swept a doubleheader from New York.

Steve Rogers fired a four-hitter in the first game and Perez socked his sixth home run of the year. In the nightcap, Dawson's second home run of the season gave Stan Bahnsen, making his first appearance for the Expos since being acquired from Oakland, the victory.

Blazers Top 76ers

PORTLAND (AP) — Suddenly, the Philadelphia 76ers have something to think about.

The Portland Trail Blazers put some thoughts in their heads Sunday, unleashing a torrid fast break for a 129-107 victory and cutting their deficit in the National Basketball Association championship finals to 2-1.

The Blazers can even the best-of-seven playoff series with a victory tonight (CBS, 9 p.m. EDT) on their home floor, where they have won their last 16 in a row and are 44-5 for the year.

Ability, desire and hard work paid off for Circleville's Dave Phillips Saturday as he went to the State Track Meet at Ohio State Stadium and walked off with the Class AA 120-yard high hurdle championship before a large crowd in the sweltering heat. Despite the fact that Phillips did not actually get a good start, he was not to be denied as he flew across the hurdles and crossed the finish line at the head of the pack with a time of 14.4. Mike Lee of Columbus Briggs was second with 14.5 while fifth place was timed in 14.7 which shows that they were closer than print on wallpaper at the finish. Circleville's Frank Merrill competed in the 880-yard run but the breaks went against him and he failed to finish in the top six. With 16 runners on the track, Merrill had to start from the back of the pack.

He made his move on the second lap and broke out of the bunch and was running third going up the far side. With his famous kick left he appeared to be in pretty good shape but suddenly he found himself boxed in and was unable to break out. But being as game as they come, he gave it everything he had in an attempt to break loose. However, this also took its toll and heat exhaustion hit him, requiring some first aid at the finish line. Ed Robinson of Dayton Jefferson won the AA 880 with a time of 1:59.9. Phillips came back to run the Class AA 180-yard low hurdles but finished fourth to Hector Garcia of Lorain Clearview who had a winning time of 19.9. At the third hurdle from the finish Phillips stumbled slightly which might have cost him second place. Jack Baisden of Bainbridge Paint Valley won the Class A 440-yard run with a time of 49.9. Bob Matson of Chillicothe Unioto set a record in the Class A shot with a toss of 57 feet 10 inches.

Veriato Finishes 2nd

ATLANTA (AP) — Steve Veriato didn't win, but he did come away from the Atlanta Classic with something important: the right to continue as a professional golfer. Veriato, 31, had won only $454 on the tour this year and had to have $7,000 by season's end to retain his card as an approved tour player. In Sunday's final round of the classic, he came in one stroke behind Hale Irwin to finish in second place and take home $22,800.

500 MILES TO GO — A. J. Foyt, in car number 14, is pictured 500 miles from victory lane at the start of Sunday's Indianapolis 500 Mile Race. It was Foyt's fourth victory in the Indy 500, an unprecedented feat. To Foyt's right is the man he chased for most of the afternoon, Gordon Johncock in car number

20. After Johncock's car failed near the end of the race, Foyt led the field on to the checkered flag. Janet Guthrie, the first woman ever to drive in Indy, ran well early in the race, but soon developed problems with her car. She dropped from the field after mechanics failed to correct the situation.

Who's The Greatest? A.J. Foyt

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Ol' grandpappy did it again — No. 4 at Indianapolis' fabled brickyard. Auto racing will wait a long time before it sees another like A.J. Foyt. Etch his name in lasting concrete beside such immortals as Ruth, Dempsey, Thorpe, Bobby Jones and Babe Zaharias. He is one of a kind. "When I get strapped into a car, everything is beautiful," the hard-nosed Texan keeps telling us. "Racing is my game. The politics, the financing, the sponsorship — all that stuff drives me up a wall."

The 42-year-old demon of speed was climbing no walls in the traditional Memorial 500 when he drove his self-designed Coyote to an unprecedented fourth Indy triumph, ending 10 years of concentrated effort. He last won in 1967.

Foyt is the maverick of the profession — intense, combative, a man of moods. Respected by his peers for his daring and rare driving skill, he nevertheless has left a legion of jealous rivals in the wake of his fire-spitting machine.

He never stopped to accumulate a regimen of close friends. His personality wouldn't allow it. Gracious and charming when thrown into a social atmosphere — not often, if he can help it — he becomes a vicious, snarling tiger when he enters the pits. A lust for speed and victory courses through his veins. He resents distractions. He has been accused of being cold to his fellow drivers and curt with the press. "I may be up to my neck in problems while I'm working in the garage," he says, "and some guy will come up and try to strike up a conversation. I say, 'Sorry, I can't talk now,' and the guy goes out and tells everybody I am a slob."

"They keep telling me I gotta do this and I gotta do that. I tell them, 'I don't have to do a damn thing but die.'"

Although five times a national driving champion, Foyt never has been satisfied to confine himself to the big tracks and the big money. He has gone against the best of his trade at Indy, Daytona, Le Mans and Sebring and has shown up at county fairs and obscure outlying tracks to race midgets, sprint cars, sports and Often he has shown up unannounced in a station wagon or on a motorcycle and asked to be entered in a race. It leaves promoters chagrined that they have not had an opportunity to publicize his appearance. No other auto racing name so excites a crowd. Like a ghost, A.J. appears, races, wins and then as quickly disappears. He's not much on ceremony. Anthony Joseph Foyt Jr., was racing at 5 in a car built by his father. He quit school at 16 and took to the road. The U.S. Auto Club says no man ever won more events on as many tracks. Although involved in many accidents — principally those in Riverside, Calif., Daytona and Milwaukee in the mid-1960s which left him broken and seared with third-degree burns, Foyt never flinched from danger. "I worry more about riding in a New York taxicab," he once said.

Charlies Rip Clippers In IL, 8-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

First baseman Craig Cacek slammed a two-run homer and a two-run double, all in the ninth inning Monday night, to lead his Charleston Charlies to a 8-2 win over the Columbus Clippers in International League baseball action.

In other games it was Syracuse over Toledo 8-3, Richmond stopping Tidewater 5-3 and Pawtucket edging Rochester 6-5.

Cacek led the visiting Charlies as they broke loose in the top of the ninth for their eighth runs after playing a scoreless game for 7½ innings. The clippers managed to get two runs in the eighth. But the Charlies, only one game out of first place, roared back.

Ron Selak boosted his record to 5-0 for the Charlies with the win. The Clipper's Ed Whitson saw his record fall to 1-5.

SEARCH FOR YOUTH — Members of the Pickaway County Sheriff's Underwater Recovery Team searched from 1:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday and most of Sunday before finding the body of 15-year-old John Roy Gayhart in the Scioto River north of the Route 22 bridge. Gayhart of Carroll, drowned while swimming late Friday night with residents of the Fausnaugh Group Home of the Ohio Youth Commission. The youngsters were to have spent the weekend at Deer Creek State Park, but were forced to camp along the Scioto because the state park camp area was filled.

Busboy Real Hero In Holocaust

CINCINNATI (AP) — "I don't feel like a hero," said Walter Bailey, a guardian busboy's attire to more than 1,000 survivors of the Beverly Hills Supper Club fire.

The 18-year-old Alexandria, Ky. youth has been deluged with job offers and money since his heroics Saturday night when he warned, and later rescued, many patrons trapped in the fire which killed at least 160 Saturday night.

Bailey watched his first major league baseball game Monday night at Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium. It was one of many gestures of appreciation offered to the fatherless teenager who jumped onstage to issue the first warning to the crowd, packed into the nightclub for a Memorial Day weekend show headlined by singer John Davidson.

Bailey, his widowed mother and three younger brothers watched the baseball game from seats provided by Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson. They were guests of Jeff Ruby, a 29-year-old Cincinnati motel management executive who was among the last to escape the fire.

"He's accepted a job with us as a lifeguard," said Ruby. "Anybody who can save 1,000 people can work for us—with or without a lifeguard certificate."

Earlier Monday Bailey said he turned down a cash gift from "an influential businessman who wanted to remain anonymous."

"I told him I wouldn't take the money," Bailey said. "Then he offered me a good job. He was among the people who got out. I guess he wanted to do something," said Bailey, who graduated from high school last week.

"If that kid didn't take it upon himself to make the announcement, instead of 150 dead there would have been only 150 survivors," said Ruby, a native of Asbury Park, N.J., who was celebrating a friend's birthday at the supper club.

Bailey said he plans to work as a lifeguard this summer, then enter college this fall.

His heroics didn't surprise his mother, Janie Hogle, 40, who suffered through hours of anguish waiting for her son to arrive home early Sunday.

From her groundlevel seats behind home plate, she recalled: "I was in hysterics after I heard about the fire. I knew how Walter feels about people and I knew he would try to save somebody. I feared he had died in the fire. I was holding his high school annual to my chest when he walked through the door at 4 a.m. I screamed and cried. I didn't know he was a hero, I just knew he was alive."

"He's been a father figure to this family since his father died three years ago. He's chipped in money and helped me bring up the boys. I'm so proud of him."

Mrs. Hogle, mother of five boys, recently went to work as a machinist for a Cincinnati tool making company.

Club Owner Shattered By Blaze

CINCINNATI (AP) — The ailing owner of the Beverly Hills Supper Club said he is in "a state of shock" over the fire that killed at least 160 persons Saturday night. He denied reports of large quantities of fuel being stored in the nightclub's basement.

Richard J. Schilling, who has lost three major nightclubs to fire, expressed sympathy Sunday to the victims' families in a telegram to The Cincinnati Enquirer.

"I have always looked upon customers at Beverly Hills as my personal guests and regret my inability, at this time, to express my thoughts and feelings, individually to each of those who has been touched by that sad event," the telegram said.

Schilling said he has been convalescing from surgery in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and plans to return home "as soon as I am released by the doctor." He refused to disclose the nature of his illness.

He has been in semi-retirement since the mid-1970s.

Schilling's statements on the fuel conflicted with those of a fuel distributor who claims he filled a 5,000-gallon storage tank next to the nightclub's front basement "a few days before the fire."

The fire started near the front of the sprawling Southgate, Ky. supper club and swept through the main building within minutes.

Mayor Ken Paul of Southgate said Monday that the stored oil was found intact.

Love Fatal For Couple

SOUTHGATE, Ky. (AP) — Love proved to be fatal for Everett and Paula Neill Jr. Everett played in the orchestra at the Beverly Hills Supper Club and Paula would often sit on an offstage couch while he played his drums.

When the club caught on fire Saturday, the 23-year-old Paula made her way to the exit and waited for her husband.

When he did not appear, she went back in the burning building to find him.

Meanwhile, her husband of two years had emerged from the burning club and waited for his wife.

He waited for a few frantic seconds and then made the fatal decision to go back inside to search for his wife.

They were together again Monday, among the 160 victims who died in the supper club fire.

Shoplifter Charged

The Circleville Police Department investigated a report of shoplifting at the Murphy Mart Store on N. Court St. at 12:28 p.m. Sunday.

According to the report, manager Harry Rumbaugh observed a subject putting a 16-piece socket set in his pants. When the subject headed for an exit, he was confronted by Rumbaugh.

Ptl. Alan Hawks was summoned to the scene, where he placed the subject under arrest and charged him with petty theft.

The man was identified as David Grabans, 21, of 1311½ East Street.

Lebanon High School Shocked By Tragedy

SOUTHGATE, Ky. (AP) — Tammy Kincer had planned a big night with her fiancé to celebrate her upcoming graduation.

The next day, her 245 classmates at Lebanon High School stood in silence as a minister accepted the diploma for the 18-year-old honor student who died along with her fiancé J. Brent Crane of Wayneville, Ohio, in Saturday's fire at the Beverly Hills Supper Club.

"Tammy was looking forward to this day. She planned to go to college and she was to be married in August. She was a lovely young girl whose mind sparkled," the Rev. Mr. Jenkins told the other graduating seniors.

Other students in the nearby Edgewood, Ohio school district were also mourning the loss of several faculty and staff who had gone to the posh club Saturday night for a retirement party.

Three teachers and several more staff personnel were trapped and died in the fire which has claimed 160 victims.

School board officials closed Wayne Elementary School for the remaining two weeks of the school year. At least five of the 18 staff members at the elementary school are dead. All of the six district schools will be closed for two days in memory of the teachers.

"Thirteen weeks of summer isn't enough for us to forget this," said Wayne Elementary Principal Kenneth Hackler.

Many residents in this tiny rural Ohio community admitted they were shaken by the fire.

"I'm glad they closed the schools because the kids frankly couldn't take it," concluded one parent.

These incidents were repeated in numerous communities in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky in the aftermath

U.S. Funds Slated For YCC Camps

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Department of Natural Resources will get $1.04 million from the federal government to operate Youth Conservation Corps camps in the state this summer.

The funding is $385,000 more than Ohio received for the program last year.

The program will provide summer jobs for over 1,000 teenagers. The department plans to operate nine resident camps and four nonresident camps. All will be coeducational for youths in the 15-18 year age groups.

ADC Rolls Drop In Month Of May

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State welfare director Kwegyir Aggrey reported Friday that Aid to Dependent Children rolls in Ohio dropped in May for the second consecutive month.

He said the 563,688 recipients in May compares to 571,102 in April and 576,252 in March.

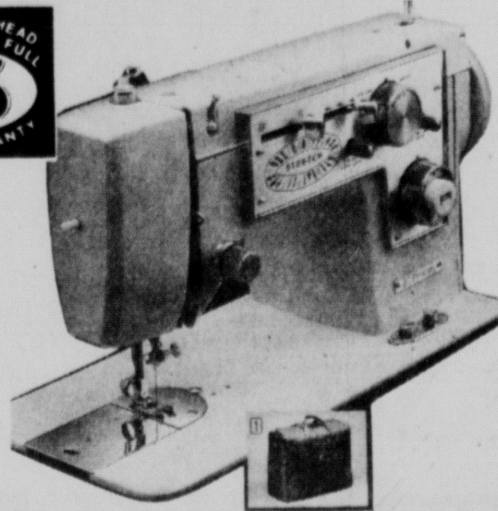

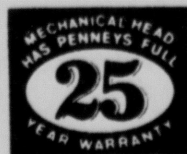

He said the decline is probably seasonal and that the average is about the same as a year ago.

These incidents were repeated in numerous communities in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky in the aftermath

"The real tragedy is that these people were here for a once-a-year outing," said Southgate Mayor Ken Paul. "These were the people who were on budgets. They looked forward to it all year."

SEARCH FOR YOUTH — Members of the Pickaway County Sheriff's Underwater Recovery Team searched from 1:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday and most of Sunday before finding the body of 15-year-old John Roy Gayhart in the Scioto River north of the Route 22 bridge. Gayhart of Carroll, drowned while swimming late Friday night with residents of the Fausnaugh Group Home of the Ohio Youth Commission. The youngsters were to have spent the weekend at Deer Creek State Park, but were forced to camp along the Scioto because the state park camp area was filled.

Busboy Real Hero In Holocaust

CINCINNATI (AP) — "I don't feel like a hero," said Walter Bailey, a guardian busboy's attire to more than 1,000 survivors of the Beverly Hills Supper Club fire.

The 18-year-old Alexandria, Ky. youth has been deluged with job offers and money since his heroics Saturday night when he warned, and later rescued, many patrons trapped in the fire which killed at least 160 Saturday night.

Bailey watched his first major league baseball game Monday night at Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium. It was one of many gestures of appreciation offered to the fatherless teenager who jumped onstage to issue the first warning to the crowd, packed into the nightclub for a Memorial Day weekend show headlined by singer John Davidson.

Bailey, his widowed mother and three younger brothers watched the baseball game from seats provided by Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson. They were guests of Jeff Ruby, a 29-year-old Cincinnati motel management executive who was among the last to escape the fire.

"He's accepted a job with us as a lifeguard," said Ruby. "Anybody who can save 1,000 people can work for us—with or without a lifeguard certificate."

Earlier Monday Bailey said he turned down a cash gift from "an influential businessman who wanted to remain anonymous."

"I told him I wouldn't take the money," Bailey said. "Then he offered me a good job. He was among the people who got out. I guess he wanted to do something," said Bailey, who graduated from high school last week.

Love Fatal For Couple

SOUTHGATE, Ky. (AP) — Love proved to be fatal for Everett and Paula Neill Jr. Everett played in the orchestra at the Beverly Hills Supper Club and Paula would often sit on an offstage couch while he played his drums.

When the club caught on fire Saturday, the 23-year-old Paula made her way to the exit and waited for her husband.

When he did not appear, she went back in the burning building to find him.

Meanwhile, her husband of two years had emerged from the burning club and waited for his wife.

He waited for a few frantic seconds and then made the fatal decision to go back inside to search for his wife.

They were together again Monday, among the 160 victims who died in the supper club fire.

himself to make the announcement, instead of 150 dead there would have been only 150 survivors," said Ruby, a native of Asbury Park, N.J., who was celebrating a friend's birthday at the supper club.

Bailey said he plans to work as a lifeguard this summer, then enter college this fall.

His heroics didn't surprise his mother, Janie Hogle, 40, who suffered through hours of anguish waiting for her son to arrive home early Sunday.

From her groundlevel seats behind home plate, she recalled: "I was in hysterics after I heard about the fire. I knew how Walter feels about people and I knew he would try to save somebody. I feared he had died in the fire. I was holding his high school annual to my chest when he walked through the door at 4 a.m. I screamed and cried. I didn't know he was a hero, I just knew he was alive."

"He's been a father figure to this family since his father died three years ago. He's chipped in money and helped me bring up the boys. I'm so proud of him."

Mrs. Hogle, mother of five boys, recently went to work as a machinist for a Cincinnati tool making company.

Shoplifter Charged

The Circleville Police Department investigated a report of shoplifting at the Murphy Mart Store on N. Court St. at 12:28 p.m. Sunday.

According to the report, manager Harry Rumbaugh observed a subject putting a 16-piece socket set in his pants. When the subject headed for an exit, he was confronted by Rumbaugh.

Ptl. Alan Hawks was summoned to the scene, where he placed the subject under arrest and charged him with petty theft.

The man was identified as David Grabans, 21, of 1311½ East Street.

Club Owner Shattered By Blaze

CINCINNATI (AP) — The ailing owner of the Beverly Hills Supper Club said he is in "a state of shock" over the fire that killed at least 160 persons Saturday night. He denied reports of large quantities of fuel being stored in the nightclub's basement.

Richard J. Schilling, who has lost three major nightclubs to fire, expressed sympathy Sunday to the victims' families in a telegram to The Cincinnati Enquirer.

"I have always looked upon customers at Beverly Hills as my personal guests and regret my inability, at this time, to express my thoughts and feelings, individually to each of those who has been touched by that sad event," the telegram said.

Schilling said he has been convalescing from surgery in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and plans to return home "as soon as I am released by the doctor." He refused to disclose the nature of his illness.

He has been in semi-retirement since the mid-1970s.

Schilling's statements on the fuel conflicted with those of a fuel distributor who claims he filled a 5,000-gallon storage tank next to the nightclub's front basement "a few days before the fire."

The fire started near the front of the sprawling Southgate, Ky. supper club and swept through the main building within minutes.

Mayor Ken Paul of Southgate said Monday that the stored oil was found intact.

Storminess Brings Moisture To Farms

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Here is the agriculture weather advisory for Ohio provided by the National Weather Service:

Thunderstorm activity will become likely by this evening. A frontal system is approaching from the west and thundershowers are expected to spread across the state ahead of the front as it moves eastward.

The front will move across the state tonight and cooler air will give Ohio some relief on Wednesday night and Thursday. Warming is expected Friday with another chance for

Find Trust Wholesome

STORRS, Conn. (AP) — People who trust others are usually happier and more honest, says a University of Connecticut psychology professor.

"The high truster is less likely to be unhappy, conflicted, or maladjusted. He is liked more and sought out as a friend more often," says Julian Rotter, who has compiled the results of 14 years of research on trust and gullibility.

On the other hand, as a group, people who do not tend to trust others show a greater tendency to shoplifting and cheating as well as an uncomfortable feeling that other people don't trust them, he says.

Although quick to point out the merits of trust, Rotter admits that many of the UConn experiments involved deliberate deception of test subjects, usually psychology students. "Yes, it is hard to study trust without using deception."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

FOR WEDNESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Self-reliance should be your keyword now. Don't let others do your thinking for you. Neither let anyone sway you from a worthwhile course.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Day calls for your steadiest heart and hand. Don't try to swim against the tide and don't try to force issues.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Your competition will be keen now, but the challenge should prove stimulating. A good chance to display your ingenuity and know-how.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): By interpreting situations arbitrarily, you may miss intended meanings. Do not hesitate to call in clever associates for better understanding. Day needs collaboration, teamwork.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Some requests may annoy, but think them over carefully. Compliance COULD prove profitable in the long run - and bring you satisfaction as well.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Survey chances: some should be rewarding. Plan on some expansion but curtail where necessary. Get your picture in focus, and you will benefit later.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Pitch into activities with verve, confidence, your usual know-how. If new propositions are made, however, give them careful study. Don't be caught off guard by surface glitter.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Routine, the things you planned and expected would run "just so," may suffer a setback. Take in stride, however, and go on to something else until "clouds" lift and you get a better perspective.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): You can make a bright new place for yourself with a little more diligence and a gracious demeanor. Use a practical arena for trying out ideas before putting them into effect.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): If you happen to get a late start, pick up your pace as you go along. Your fine mind and quick comprehension of unusual situations should be stimulated now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Influences favorable in part, but day requires more effort, steady application of your skills and knowledge. Cooperation with right forces vital.

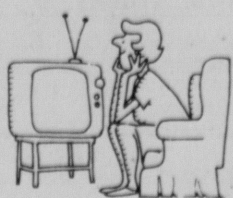

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Excellent Neptune influences. An encouraging period! Bolster your self-confidence, your powers of concentration, and be patient for the results which WILL come.

YOU BORN TODAY are extremely versatile and can build a luminous career in any one of many fields; could even make an avocation highly remunerative. Your individualism is outstanding and you have the ability to attract people to you on sight. You love travel for its own sake; could, therefore, succeed in any line which involves both travelling and dealing with great numbers of persons. You are endowed with a remarkably retentive memory and would make a most successful journalist or writer on almost any subject. Other fields in which you could shine: music, the stage (as actor, playwright or director), aviation or any of the communications media. Birthdate of: Brigham Young, leader of the Mormons; John Masfield, Eng. poet laureate, novelist, playwright; Marilyn Monroe, film star; Pat Boone, pop singer.

Organ Music

WEST HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Hartt College of Music at the University of Hartford will present the seventh annual International Contemporary Organ Music Festival June 6-10. The festival will feature guest organist Robert Anderson, head of the organ department at Southern Methodist University in Dallas.

To do that, added the 40-year-old Chicagoan, he tried to recreate the original musical arrangements of the old songs which lack the complex harmonies of today's pop tunes and may sound, ah, square. No matter, said Karlin: "I've been true to their language."

Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — No way "Don't Go Up in That Big Balloon, Dad" ever will soar to the Top 40 list of your local radio station. Likewise the tune, "If You Talk in Your Sleep, Don't Mention My Name."

But such musty oldies will be aired July 4 on a CBS special, "They Said It With Music: Yankee Doodle to Ragtime," American history in popular music from the Revolutionary War to 1914.

Whence did such obscure opi come? They came from the private archives of the show's music director and researcher, Fred Karlin, who was aided by his wife, Meg, a musicologist and writer.

And while the July 4 show includes that Civil War hit, "Battle Hymn of the Republic," Karlin says he didn't pick most of the program's songs simply because they were popular in their era.

"They've all been selected topically, because the show is organized by topic," he said, referring to its segments on such diverse things as transportation, black history and the war between the sexes.

"The program isn't a chronological history of music, from the Revolution to ragtime, but rather a study of the relationship between American popular music and the social elements of the times."

"What it shows you are attitudes toward a specific topic." For example, he said, the opening of the New York subway in 1904 prompted many songs about the subway. It was a big deal back then.

So, in the show's transportation segment, he ran in two subsurface ditties, "Come Take Ride Underground," and "Down in the Subway."

And in the section on the war between the sexes, Karlin said, he plunged deep into his vaults and came up with a gem called "I Trust My Husband Anywhere, But I'd like to Stick Around."

That selection will be sung in the show by Jean Stapleton, who shares the bill with Jason Robards, Bernadette Peters, Flip Wilson and Tony Randall, the last a human warehouse of musical obscurities.

Karlin, who did the music for such acclaimed TV shows as "Miss Jane Pittman" and "Minstrel Man," said with the July 4 show "we've tried to evoke each period without imitating the performances."

"There were stylistic things which, if imitated today, would be ludicrous," he said, citing heavy use of the vibrato — a pulsating effect in a music tone — by musicians and singers way back then.

In trying to evoke the feeling of each period covered in the show, Karlin said, "I didn't want us to be looking back at this music. I wanted us to be there."

To do that, added the 40-year-old Chicagoan, he tried to recreate the original musical arrangements of the old songs which lack the complex harmonies of

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

FOR WEDNESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Self-reliance should be your keyword now. Don't let others do your thinking for you. Neither let anyone sway you from a worthwhile course.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Day calls for your steadiest heart and hand. Don't try to swim against the tide and don't try to force issues.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Your competition will be keen now, but the challenge should prove stimulating. A good chance to display your ingenuity and know-how.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): By interpreting situations arbitrarily, you may miss intended meanings. Do not hesitate to call in clever associates for better understanding. Day needs collaboration, teamwork.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Some requests may annoy, but think them over carefully. Compliance COULD prove profitable in the long run — and bring you satisfaction as well.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Survey chances: some should be rewarding. Plan on some expansion but curtail where necessary. Get your picture in focus, and you will benefit later.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Pitch into activities with verve, confidence, your usual know-how. If new propositions are made, however, give them careful study. Don't be caught off guard by surface glitter.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Routine, the things you planned and expected would run "just so," may suffer a setback. Take in stride, however, and go on to something else until "clouds" lift and you get a better perspective.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): You can make a bright new place for yourself with a little more diligence and a gracious demeanor. Use a practical arena for trying out ideas before putting them into effect.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): If you happen to get a late start, pick up your pace as you go along. Your fine mind and quick comprehension of unusual situations should be stimulated now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Influences favorable in part, but day requires more effort, steady application of your skills and knowledge. Cooperation with right forces vital.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Excellent Neptune influences. An encouraging period! Bolster your self-confidence, your powers of concentration, and be patient for the results which WILL come.

YOU BORN TODAY are extremely versatile and can build a luminous career in any one of many fields; could even make an avocation highly remunerative. Your individualism is outstanding and you have the ability to attract people to your own sake; could, therefore, succeed in any line which involves both travelling and dealing with great numbers of persons. You are endowed with a remarkably retentive memory and would make a most successful journalist or writer on almost any subject.

Other fields in which you could shine: music, the stage (as actor, playwright or director), aviation or any of the communications media. Birthdate of: Brigham Young, leader of the Mormons; John Masfield, Eng. poet laureate, novelist, playwright; Marilyn Monroe, film star; Pat Boone, pop singer.

Organ Music

WEST HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Hartt College of Music at the University of Hartford will present the seventh annual International Contemporary Organ Music Festival June 6-10. The festival will feature guest organist Robert Anderson, head of the organ department at Southern Methodist University in Dallas.

To do that, added the 40-year-old Chicagoan, he tried to recreate the original musical arrangements of the old songs which lack the complex harmonies of today's pop tunes and may sound, ah, square. No matter, said Karlin: "I've been true to their language."

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Pearly A. Kuhn who passed away one year ago May 30, 1976. Very much remembered by wife, children and grandchildren.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear wife, mother and grandmother, Florence E. Forquer whose life was taken May 31, 1976.

May comes with sad regrets the day and the month we will never forget.

In the stillness of the night our tears will often flow. To think how suddenly you left us on this day, one year ago.

We wanted so much to keep you, we watched you day by day. Until at last with breaking hearts, we saw you slip away.

Deeply loved and sadly missed by Husband, George; Mother, Florence Roberts; son and daughter in law, Michael and Deborah Forquer; Daughter and son in law, Madelyn and Lloyd Davidson; And grandchildren, Michelle, Phillip and Shawn Davidson.

Swoon Man Wins
Latonia Feature

LATONIA, Ky. (AP) — Swoon Man came out of sixth place at the three quarter pole with an outside rush to win the $800 feature at the Latonia Trots Monday night. Swoon Man, driven by Jeff Brewer, went the mile in 2:07 2-5 to win by two lengths. The victory paid $7.80, $3.60 and $3.00. Dusty Daze returned $4.00 and $3.00. The show horse was Edgewood Merlin at $4.00.

Today women constitute more than 40 per cent of the U.S. labor force, yet only 4.7 per cent of the nation's lawyers and only 3.4 per cent of the judges in the State Court system are women, according to the Community Survey on the Status of Women done by the Population Institute.

Holiday Accidents Kill 16 Persons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Memorial Day weekend ended in Ohio with a total of 16 persons dead as a result of injuries recieved in road mishaps.

Only one of the deaths occurred on Memorial Day, and five of the accidents involved motorcyclists.

A cycling crash killed two men in one of two double-fatality accidents of the holiday period. Patrick Coyle, 24, operator of the motorcycle, and his passenger, Ronald M. Adams, 25, both of Zanesville, were identified as the victims. Authorities say the motorcycle collided with a tractor-trailer rig on a Zanesville street.

The Highway Patrol kept its tabulation of holiday traffic fatalities from 6 p.m. Friday through midnight Monday.

The dead:

MONDAY
OAK HILL — Amy Mitchell, 1, Trenton, and Keith Allen Bailey, 19, Middleton, in a one-car mishap on a Butler County road.

PAULDING — William Ankney, 18, of Defiance, in a two-vehicle accident on Ohio 111 in Paulding County.

SUNDAY
NAPOLEON — Cynthia Bostelman, 16, of Napoleon, in a one-car mishap on a Henry County road.

SANDUSKY — James Miller, 20, Lorain, in a single car accident on an Erie County road.

COLUMBUS — David Daniels, 32, Columbus, in a single-car accident on Interstate 70 in Franklin County.

UPPER SANDUSKY — Ruth Courtad, 74, Upper Sandusky, when the car in which she was riding struck a train at a Wyandot County crossing.

BATAVIA — Deborah Buttrey, 17, Cincinnati, when the car in which she was riding crashed on a Clermont

County road.

CANTON — Clyon J. Steede, 35, Alliance, in a motorcycle accident on Route 172 in Paris Township north of Minerva in Stark County.

SATURDAY
NEW PHILADELPHIA — James T. Johnson, 22, Canton, in a car-motorcycle accident on Ohio 800 in Tuscarawas County.

SANDUSKY — Neil Wikel, 39, Sandusky, when the motorcycle he was riding ran off Ohio Route 101 in Erie County.

CLEVELAND — Nathaniel Wright, 32, Euclid, when his car struck a parked vehicle on a Cleveland street.

CHARDON — Rostyslaw R. Czuckhray, 20, Cleveland, in a one-car accident on a Bainbridge Township street in Geauga County.

ZANESVILLE — Patrick Coyle, 24, and his motorcycle passenger, Ronald M. Adams, 25, both of Zanesville, in a motorcycle-tractor-trailer truck accident on a Zanesville street.

FRIDAY NIGHT
MARIETTA — David W. Schoonover, 24, Toledo, in a two-car mishap on Ohio 676 in rural Washington County.

The Old Vic Theater was built in South London in 1818. Originally named the Royal Coburg, it proved a failure as a drama theater and was turned into a music hall. The old edifice became famous after 1914 when it was converted into a classical and Shakespearean theater.

Mrs. Carter Tours Jamaica

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Heavy rains that reportedly took the lives of at least six Jamaicans wiped out Rosalynn Carter's chance to meet with sugar cane cutters and wield a machete today.

Instead of touring a sugar plantation cooperative in the countryside, the First Lady was visiting the Central Kingston Upgrading Project, a program aimed at improving conditions in the slums of the Jamaican capital.

Mrs. Carter on Monday spent the first day of her seven-nation Latin American swing at official receptions and high-level meetings with government officials, discussing such subjects as Cuba, Jamaica's economic crisis — and the rain.

The heavy rain, which started as a "mixed May blessing" several days ago, has affected a large area of the Caribbean. Besides the six persons reported killed in flooding, hundreds were made homeless by the torrential downpours.

On her way from the Kingston airport Monday, Mrs. Carter was mobbed by an enthusiastic crush of children, and Prime Minister Michael Manley stopped their car briefly so she could greet the youngsters, who had been let out of school for her arrival.

A light drizzle was falling as Mrs. Carter arrived from Georgia, and Manley apologized for the lack of sun. But he said since his guest came from a farming community, she "would appreciate that rain after three years of drought was a very good thing for Jamaica."

The weather shrank the number of invited guests at an official outdoor dinner party at the prime minister's home from more than 200 to fewer than 50 and forced them inside. But Mrs. Carter said she'd like to take some of the rain home to Georgia, "where we've had to stop planting peanuts because of the drought."

The First Lady had a three-hour working lunch with Manley and leading members of his government. She said she covered all the issues listed in her notebook for discussion — Cuba, the Panama Canal, energy, trade policies, human rights and Jamaica's economic problems.

Mrs. Carter said she was "really pleased" with the conversation, which her press secretary, Mary Hoyt, described as "brisk, candid, informal and substantive."

Relations between the Jamaican government and the Nixon and Ford administrations were rocky because of Manley's socialist policies and his close ties with Fidel Castro's Communist regime in Cuba. But Assistant Secretary of State Terence Todman, who is traveling with Mrs. Carter, said that close association enabled the Jamaicans to provide information that would be "extremely useful" in the future normalization of relations between the United States and Cuba.

Todman said as a followup to their recent fishing agreement, the U.S. and Cuban governments were discussing exchanging small, lower-level diplomatic delegations as a step toward full relations.

Mrs. Carter also took a complimentary line toward Manley's socialism, telling him in her arrival remarks at the airport: "You have roused the admiration of the people of our country by your democratic achievements."

Holiday Grim One For Many Boaters

CLEVELAND (AP) — Highways were not the only dangerous place to be this Memorial Day weekend—the Great Lakes also proved to be deadly for some weekend sailors.

The Coast Guard reported that two bodies were recovered, three Michigan men were presumed dead and four Ohio men were missing in incidents over the weekend.

Guardmen had responded to more than 300 incidents involving about 800 persons by the end of the weekend, said Chief Jim Burrell of the Coast Guard's Great Lakes search and rescue headquarters in Cleveland.

Besides looking for possible drowning victims, the Coast Guard was kept busy by vessels that went aground, went adrift, ran out of fuel or had mechanical breakdowns, he said.

On Lake Erie, winds from the east confused sailors accustomed to westerly winds, Burrell said. On Sunday, Lake Erie waves were up to 10 feet high and on Monday they reached four feet.

The known dead included Lois Vail, 48, of the Cleveland suburb of Middleburg Heights, when she was pitched from her 27-foot sailboat off Sandusky, officials said.

Pinkney D. Terry, 46, and his son A. Davis Terry, 21, of the Cleveland suburb of Brecksville were presumed dead after their boat capsized Monday while in a regatta north of Sandusky. The elder Terry was vice president for operations at the Akron headquarters of the B.F. Goodrich Co.

Also in Ohio, Mark and Jim Kowalski of Fremont were reported missing. Authorities said they had set out from Put-in-Bay near Sandusky in a 33-foot cabin cruiser.

Burrell said a Detroit man drowned Saturday in the St. Clair River while trying to retrieve a friend's wallet as they fished from a highway bridge near Port Huron, Mich.

Another Michigan man was presumed to have died Saturday when a sailboat capsized in Huron Lake's Saginaw Bay off Tawas City, Mich. At the opposite end of Saginaw Bay, two men were presumed to have drowned Saturday after their vessel overturned off Port Austin, the Coast Guard said.

Grim Scene Awaits Visitors To Morgue

FORT THOMAS, Ky. (AP) — Most of the bodies were gone, but the pain was no less for the families who filed up the stairs to the morgue.

James Dwyer of Lexington was there twice on Memorial Day. His 22-year-old sister, Sheila Ann, is dead. His mother, Rosemary, 58, and another sister, 24-year-old Mary Nell, are missing. Dwyer collapsed in grief under a tree.

The Dwyers were among the dead and missing after Saturday's fire at the Beverly Hills Supper Club in nearby Southgate. By Monday night, 160 bodies had been recovered and brought to the Fort Thomas armory.

On Monday morning, 68-year-old Ella Werner of Cincinnati, looking for her daughter, collapsed in the morgue and was taken out on a stretcher, whisked away to a hospital.

Another slight, blonde woman hesitatingly approached the steps to the armory-turned morgue.

"No, no, no!" she screamed in anguish, refusing to enter the morgue. "No, no, no..."

She wept in the arms of a burly, young volunteer who picked up the woman and carried her up the stairs, away from the cameras and reporters.

Families who came to the morgue were escorted away by clergymen, police and volunteers to grieve in private.

Inside the gymnasium-turned-morgue, a dozen bodies, shrouded with white plastic sheets, were lined up on the floor, plastic bags of personal effects at their feet. Masked and gloved teen-age volunteers carried bodies on stretchers to four local dentists and special FBI agents who worked behind sheeted makeshift cubicles to identify bodies from dental charts and fingerprints.

Campbell County Coroner Fred Stine estimated it would take two or three days before all the bodies were identified. Unclaimed bodies will be buried, he said.

However, "some may never be identified," said Stine. "If a person had no relatives and lived alone, no one would miss him."

Stine said the condition of some bodies made sex identification difficult, "but it's hard to completely incinerate a body."

Booklet Orients School Boards

WESTERVILLE, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio School Boards Association has published a booklet intended to orient school board members with collective bargaining issues that may arise in school employee contracts.

The booklet includes a glossary of collective bargaining terms, an outline of the history of unionization and a description of current bargaining processes.

The United States' flag was first raised in Idaho in 1834 at Fort Hall along the Oregon Trail.

Mrs. Carter Tours Jamaica

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Heavy rains that reportedly took the lives of at least six Jamaicans wiped out Rosalynn Carter's chance to meet with sugar cane cutters and wield a machete today.

Instead of touring a sugar plantation cooperative in the countryside, the First Lady was visiting the Central Kingston Upgrading Project, a program aimed at improving conditions in the slums of the Jamaican capital.

Mrs. Carter on Monday spent the first day of her seven-nation Latin American swing at official receptions and high-level meetings with government officials, discussing such subjects as Cuba, Jamaica's economic crisis — and the rain.

The heavy rain, which started as a "mixed May blessing" several days ago, has affected a large area of the Caribbean. Besides the six persons reported killed in flooding, hundreds were made homeless by the torrential downpours.

On her way from the Kingston airport Monday, Mrs. Carter was mobbed by an enthusiastic crush of children, and Prime Minister Michael Manley stopped their car briefly so she could greet the youngsters, who had been let out of school for her arrival.

A light drizzle was falling as Mrs. Carter arrived from Georgia, and Manley apologized for the lack of sun. But he said since his guest came from a farming community, she "would appreciate that rain after three years of drought was a very good thing for Jamaica."

The weather shrank the number of invited guests at an official outdoor dinner party at the prime minister's home from more than 200 to fewer than 50 and forced them inside. But Mrs. Carter said she'd like to take some of the rain home to Georgia, "where we've had to stop planting peanuts because of the drought."

The First Lady had a three-hour working lunch with Manley and leading members of his government. She said she covered all the issues listed in her notebook for discussion — Cuba, the Panama Canal, energy, trade policies, human rights and Jamaica's economic problems.

Mrs. Carter said she was "really pleased" with the conversation, which her press secretary, Mary Hoyt, described as "brisk, candid, informal and substantive."

Relations between the Jamaican government and the Nixon and Ford administrations were rocky because of Manley's socialist policies and his close ties with Fidel Castro's Communist regime in Cuba. But Assistant Secretary of State Terence Todman, who is traveling with Mrs. Carter, said that close association enabled the Jamaicans to provide information that would be "extremely useful" in the future normalization of relations between the United States and Cuba.

Todman said as a followup to their recent fishing agreement, the U.S. and Cuban governments were discussing exchanging small, lower-level diplomatic delegations as a step toward full relations.

Mrs. Carter also took a complimentary line toward Manley's socialism, telling him in her arrival remarks at the airport: "You have roused the admiration of the people of our country by your democratic achievements."

Holiday Grim One For Many Boaters

CLEVELAND (AP) — Highways were not the only dangerous place to be this Memorial Day weekend—the Great Lakes also proved to be deadly for some weekend sailors.

The Coast Guard reported that two bodies were recovered, three Michigan men were presumed dead and four Ohio men were missing in incidents over the weekend.

Guardmen had responded to more than 300 incidents involving about 800 persons by the end of the weekend, said Chief Jim Burrell of the Coast Guard's Great Lakes search and rescue headquarters in Cleveland.

Besides looking for possible drowning victims, the Coast Guard was kept busy by vessels that went aground, went adrift, ran out of fuel or had mechanical breakdowns, he said.

On Lake Erie, winds from the east confused sailors accustomed to westerly winds, Burrell said. On Sunday, Lake Erie waves were up to 10 feet high and on Monday they reached four feet.

The known dead included Lois Vail, 48, of the Cleveland suburb of Middleburg Heights, when she was pitched from her 27-foot sailboat off Sandusky, officials said.

Pinkney D. Terry, 46, and his son A. Davis Terry, 21, of the Cleveland suburb of Brecksville were presumed dead after their boat capsized Monday while in a regatta north of Sandusky. The elder Terry was vice president for operations at the Akron headquarters of the B.F. Goodrich Co.

Also in Ohio, Mark and Jim Kowalski of Fremont were reported missing. Authorities said they had set out from Put-in-Bay near Sandusky in a 33-foot cabin cruiser.

Burrell said a Detroit man drowned

Saturday in the St. Clair River while trying to retrieve a friend's wallet as they fished from a highway bridge near Port Huron, Mich.

Another Michigan man was presumed to have died Saturday when a sailboat capsized in Huron Lake's Saginaw Bay off Tawas City, Mich. At the opposite end of Saginaw Bay, two men were presumed to have drowned Saturday after their vessel overturned off Port Austin, the Coast Guard said.

KROGER'S FINEST
AMERICAN LAMB
GOV'T GRADED CHOICE

WHY KROGER
SHOPPERS ARE EATING

TWICE AS MUCH LAMB THIS YEAR

Lamb. The Kroger Kind. Young. Naturally tender. Juicy. Delicate flavor that's all its own. If you haven't tried lamb in recent years, you have a nice surprise waiting.

Kroger lamb is U.S. Choice Grade, which is the ideal quality for best-eating young lamb. We insist on only the perfect size, too, to make sure it's a consistently meaty value.

Here are a few hints for lamb shoppers:

--Lamb is lean, easy to digest and an excellent source of protein, B-vitamins and minerals.

--Lamb is great for grilling outdoors. Tiny lamb riblets make delightful appetizers. Try ground lamb patties as a change from burgers. And most spectacular (shish kebab was originally made with lamb), lamb cubes alternated on a skewer with cherry tomatoes, green pepper squares and onions.

--Don't overcook lamb. This very young lamb is so tender it doesn't need long cooking. It's at its juicy best when cooked to the medium-rare stage.

(For additional information on buying and cooking lamb, write to Mary Ellen Gowan, Consumer Affairs Specialist, The Kroger Co., P.O. Box 1199, Cincinnati OH 45201)

KROGER'S FINEST
AMERICAN LAMB
GOV'T GRADED CHOICE

WHY KROGER'S LAMB IS THE BEST
SHOPS ARE EATING

AS TASTY AS LAMB THIS YEAR

Lamb. The Kroger Kind. Young. Naturally tender. Juicy. Delicate flavor that's all its own. If you haven't tried lamb in recent years, you have a nice surprise waiting.

Kroger lamb is U.S. Choice Grade, which is the ideal quality for best-eating young lamb. We insist on only the perfect size, too, to make sure it's a consistently meaty value.

Here are a few hints for lamb shoppers:

--Lamb is lean, easy to digest and an excellent source of protein, B-vitamins and iron.

--Lamb is great for grilling outdoors. Try lamb ribs make delightful appetizers. Try ground lamb patties as a change from burgers. And most spectacular (shish kebab was originally made with lamb), lamb cubes alternated on a skewer with cherry tomatoes, green pepper squares and onions.

--Don't overcook lamb. This very young lamb is so tender it doesn't need long cooking. It's at its juicy best when cooked to the medium-rare stage.

(For additional information on buying and cooking lamb, write to Mary Ellen Gault, Consumer Affairs Specialist, The Kroger Co., P.O. Box 1100, Cincinnati OH 45201)
